Helium Production, Bureau of Mines—

Helium production and investigations: The sums made available for the fiscal year [1946] 1947 in the Acts making appropriations for the War and Navy Departments for the acquisition of helium from the Bureau of Mines shall be transferred to the Bureau of Mines on July 1, [1945] 1946, for operation and maintenance of the plants for the production of helium for military and naval purposes, including laboratory gloves, goggles, rubber boots, and aprons; [purchase, not to exceed three,] maintenance, operation, and repair of motor-propelled passenger-carrying vehicles, books of reference and periodicals; the purchase in the District of Columbia and elsewhere of items otherwise properly chargeable to the appropriation "Contingent expenses, Department of the Interior" (not exceeding $5,000); and all other necessary expenses, and including [$42,000] $40,000 for personal services in the District of Columbia in addition to which sums the Bureau of Mines may use for helium-plant operations in the fiscal year [1946] 1947 the unobligated balance of funds transferred to it for such operations, in [the fiscal year 1945] prior years: Provided, That section 3709, Revised Statutes, shall not be construed to apply to this appropriation, or to the appropriation for development and operation of helium properties (special fund) in section 3 (c) of the Act of September 1, 1937 (50 U. S. C. 164): Provided further, That funds available for the production of helium and the development of helium properties may be utilized to provide transportation between helium plants and related facilities and communities that provide adequate living accommodations of persons engaged in the operation and maintenance of helium plants; and for transportation to and from schools of pupils who are dependents of such persons [which transportation shall be by methods which the Office of Defense Transportation shall find to be most advantageous and efficient]: Provided further, That pursuant to agreements approved by the Secretary [and the Office of Defense Transportation], the transportation equipment available to the Bureau of Mines may be pooled with that of school districts and other local or Federal agencies for use in transporting persons engaged in operation and maintenance of helium plants, pupils who are dependents of such persons, and other pupils, and in the interest of economy the expenses of operating such equipment may be shared. During the fiscal year [1946] 1947 the head of any department or independent establishment of the Government having funds available for scientific investigations within the scope of the functions of the Bureau of Mines may, with the approval of the Secretary, transfer to the Bureau such sums as may be necessary therefor, which sums so transferred may be expended for the same objects and in the same manner as sums appropriated herein may be expended.

The Federal Security Administrator may detail medical officers of the Public Health Service for cooperative health, safety, or sanitation work with the Bureau of Mines, and the compensation and expenses of the officers so detailed may be paid from the applicable appropriations made herein for the Bureau of Mines.

The Bureau of Mines is hereby authorized, during the fiscal year [1946] 1947, to sell directly or through any Government agency, including corporations, any metal or mineral product that may be manufactured in pilot plants operated from funds appropriated to the Bureau of Mines, and the proceeds of such sales shall be covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

The following appropriations herein made to the Bureau of Mines shall be available for the hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft: "Operating rescue cars and stations and investigation of accidents"; "Investigation [of raw-material resources for steel production (national defense)"; and "Investigations of deposits of critical and essential minerals in the United States and its possessions (national defense)] and development of domestic mineral deposits, except fuels"; and "Metallurgical research in pilot plants". (Act of July 3, 1945, Public Law 123.)

Total, Fish and Wildlife Service, [$6,219,325] $11,108,275, and in addition thereto, funds made available under the Migratory Bird Conservation Fund, of which amounts not to exceed [$704,828] $992,790 may be expended for departmental personal services, including such services in the District of Columbia. Funds available for the work of the Fish and Wildlife Service shall be available for the purchase of [seventy-two] one hundred and forty-two motor-propelled passenger-carrying vehicles and for the maintenance, repair, and operation of such vehicles; hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; the installation and operation of telephones in Government-owned residences, apartments, or quarters occupied by employees of the Fish and Wildlife Service; providing by purchase, construction, or otherwise, facilities incident to such public recreational uses of wildlife refuges as are not inconsistent with the primary purposes of such refuges; newspapers (not to exceed $100), rubber boots, oilskins, first-aid outfits; plans and specifications for vessels, or for contract personal services for the preparation thereof without regard to Section 3709, Revised Statutes (41 U. S. C. 5); and rations for officers and crews of vessels; and for the expenditure from appropriations available for the purchase of lands of not to exceed $1 for each option to purchase any tract of land. Reimbursements for the cost of supplies and materials and the transportation and handling thereof issued from central warehouses authorized to be established by the Act of June 24, 1936 (16 U. S. C. 667), may be credited to the appropriation current at the time supplies and materials are allotted, assigned, or issued, or at the time such reimbursements are received. Not to exceed 5 per centum of the foregoing amounts for expenses of the Fish and Wildlife Service shall be available interchangeably for expenditure on the objects included within the general expenses of said Service, but no more than 5 per centum shall be added to any one item or appropriation. [In addition to the airplanes authorized for purchase in the foregoing items, the] The Fish and Wildlife Service may acquire not to exceed ten surplus airplanes from any disposal agency of the Government without reimbursement or transfer of funds. (Act of July 3, 1945, Public Law 123.)

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Summary of estimates of appropriation for the fiscal year 1947, compared with appropriations for the fiscal year 1946

[The 1947 Budget estimates make specific provision for additional costs made necessary by pay legislation enacted near the close of the fiscal year 1945. The 1946 appropriations did not make specific provision for any such costs and thus the appropriations shown below are not comparable with the 1947 estimates to whatever extent deficiency appropriations may be necessary to meet these added costs]

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

GENERAL STATEMENT

The Department of Justice represents the Government in legal matters and renders advice and opinions upon request of the President and the heads of executive departments. The work of the Department also includes the activities of the United States district attorneys and marshals in the 93 judicial districts, and the operations of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Immigration and Naturalization Service, and the Federal Prison System.

LEGAL ACTIVITIES AND GENERAL ADMINISTRATION

This section of the estimates consists of the legal and administrative offices and divisions. The offices of the Attorney General, the Solicitor General, the Assistant to the Attorney General, the Assistant Solicitor General, the Pardon Attorney, Board of Immigration Appeals and Board of Parole have been consolidated in 1947 under a new appropriation title, "Salaries, Office of the Attorney General, etc.", to provide a simplified budget and administrative flexibility for these units. This section also provides for the Administrative Division, and other divisions handling tax, criminal, claims, antitrust, customs, land, and other legal matters. The War Division is eliminated, the few permanent functions being transferred to permanent divisions. The estimates for this section total approximately 5 percent over 1946 appropriations, without providing for 1946 costs of recent pay legislation. A substantially increased work load is reflected in larger estimates for the Tax and Claims Divisions, and a decreased work load by a smaller estimate for the Lands Division. Material reductions have been made in the estimates for the Criminal Division, which primarily reflect improved methods and organization, and in the cost of penalty mail.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

This Bureau throughout the war period has had responsibility for investigating activities relative to espionage, sabotage, war frauds, selective service violations, and similar matters. Except for war frauds, the number of investigations in this group is expected to decline further. This decline will be partially offset by an increase in investigations relating to war frauds and other criminal and civil matters. The regular and national defense estimates are merged for 1947 and are approximately 20 percent under the total of appropriations for 1946, without providing for 1946 costs of recent pay legislation.

IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION SERVICE

The Alien Enemy Detention program, which required approximately 15 percent of the 1946 appropriations, is eliminated. It is expected that all alien enemy internees will be removed from the country during 1946. This saving is largely offset by increased provisions for border inspection and patrol activities required to cope efficiently with rapidly increasing international traffic, including air travel. Improved procedures relating to the control of resident aliens are to be continued and further developed. The estimate is approximately 11 percent over 1946 appropriations, without providing for 1946 costs of recent pay legislation.

FEDERAL PRISON SYSTEM

Estimates for this section exceed appropriations for 1946 by approximately 31 percent, without providing for 1946 costs of recent pay legislation. Provision is made for a continuance of the upward trend in prison population; certain construction, alterations, and repairs at existing institutions; and a limited staff to plan construction anticipated in future years. The Board of Parole is transferred to the office of the Attorney General.

Disposition of Deposits of Aliens Who Become Public Charges—

Represents proceeds from redemption of United States bonds deposited as collateral in connection with public-charge bonds filed by aliens and later declared breached by the Attorney General and the penalty forfeited. These funds are available for payment to State or municipal agencies for expenses incurred in caring for aliens who become public charges. (8 U. S. C. 158.)

Return of Deposits To Secure Payment of Fines and Passage Money, Immigration and Naturalization Service—

Amounts collected from transportation companies, owners and masters of vessels and agents to cover fines that may be imposed for unlawful entry of aliens and to secure the return of passage money (including head tax if paid by the alien as part of passage money) are deposited in the trust receipt account "Deposits to Secure Payment of Fines and Passage Money, Immigration and Naturalization Service." The portion of receipts representing fines, penalties, etc., is transferred monthly to miscellaneous-receipt account "Immigration Fines and Penalties." Such amounts as are required to make refunds to transportation companies and others in cases where no fine is imposed, and for payment to aliens of amounts due them are established from time to time in the appropriation account. (31 U. S. C. 725r.)

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Summary of estimates of appropriation for the fiscal year 1947, compared with appropriations for the fiscal year 1946

[The 1947 Budget estimates make specific provision for additional costs made necessary by pay legislation enacted near the close of the fiscal year 1945. The 1946 appropriations did not make specific provision for any such costs and thus the appropriations shown below are not comparable with the 1947 estimates to whatever extent deficiency appropriations may be necessary to meet these added costs]

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

GENERAL STATEMENT

The act of March 4, 1913, creating the Department of Labor established the purpose of the Department "to foster, promote, and develop the welfare of the wage earners in the United States, to improve their working conditions, and to advance their opportunities for profitable employment."

The reduction in the 1947 estimates for the Department as a whole is accounted for principally by the decrease in the estimate for grants to States for emergency maternity and infant care, due to the estimated decline in the number of men in the four lowest pay grades of the armed services. Exclusive of grants to States, the estimates provide an increase in administrative expenses from $14,383,000 appropriated in 1946 to $17,833,500 in 1947, an increase of $3,450,500. The principal increases provided are for (1) expansion of the plant inspection program of the Wage and Hour Division and the litigation work of the Solicitor's Office under the Fair Labor Standards Act; (2) additional inquiries by the Bureau of Labor Statistics into problems of labor productivity, labor relations, off-site employment created by construction programs, and foreign labor conditions; (3) studies by the Children's Bureau of postwar problems of juvenile delinquency and youth employment, and expansion of its field staff working with the States on the grant programs; and (4) general upgrading and reclassification of positions and additional conciliators in the United States Conciliation Service.

Executive Order 9617 dated September 19, 1945, transferred the United States Employment Service, the National War Labor Board, and the Retraining and Reemployment Administration to the Department of Labor. Because of their changing programs and problems arising out of their integration within the Department of Labor, no estimates for these agencies are submitted at this time. An amendment to the Budget covering their activities will be submitted at a later date.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

The Office of the Secretary provides general supervision and policy direction over the activities of the Department. In addition to the immediate Office of the Secretary, the activities financed from this appropriation include administrative staff functions, such as the Office of the Solicitor, the library, and the division of information, and the operating functions of the Division of Labor Standards and the United States Conciliation Service.

The Division of Labor Standards assists industry, labor, and the States in improving, developing, and administering labor laws, and sponsors official activities aimed at improving working conditions of employees. This division operates as a clearinghouse of information for State labor departments, and in this capacity conducts national and regional conferences at which labor law administrators, workers, employers, and interested public agencies exchange views upon proper labor standards and administrative methods. It engages in Nation-wide industrial accident prevention campaigns, formulates standards for the improvement of factory safety and health, and prepares technical bulletins for the guidance of management and labor in the handling of labor relations in the plant.

The United States Conciliation Service acts for the Secretary of Labor under section 8 of the organic act of 1913 which provides that "the Secretary of Labor shall have power to act as mediator and appoint commissioners of conciliation in labor disputes whenever in his judgment the interests of industrial peace may require it to be done." Under Executive Order 9017 (Jan. 12, 1942) and the War Labor Disputes Act (July 25, 1943), if the Conciliation Service is unable to adjust a labor dispute interfering with national defense or war production, the Secretary of Labor may certify the dispute to the National War Labor Board for determination. Since the War Labor Board voted in November 1945 to terminate its existence, no new disputes have been certified to the Board. Until other machinery is established, the Conciliation Service is the principal instrument for carrying out the Federal Government's policy of voluntary assistance to the parties in labor disputes, supplementing collective bargaining as the primary method of maintaining sound and harmonious industrial relations.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS

The Bureau of Labor Statistics since 1888 has been charged with the statutory duty "to acquire and diffuse among the people in the United States useful information on subjects connected with labor in the most general and comprehensive sense." It collects, analyzes and publishes statistical and other relevant information concerning wages, hours of labor, employment, earnings, wholesale and retail prices, cost of living, building construction, the effect of technological improvements upon labor and employment, industrial accidents, and related subjects. The statistical series and economic studies produced by the Bureau constitute indispensable data for legislators and other Federal officials concerned with formulating national policies relative to the well-being of the national economy.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU

The Children's Bureau concerns itself with all activities pertaining to the welfare of children and child life, and develops standards of legislation and administrative practice designed to improve and promote the welfare of mothers and children. It administers those provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act which prohibit and regulate child labor under certain conditions and ages. It administers grants to States under title V of the Social Security Act for the improvement of maternal and child health services, services for crippled children, child welfare services, and for the national defense program of maternity and infant care for wives and children of men in the four lowest pay grades of the armed services.

WOMEN'S BUREAU

The Women's Bureau formulates standards and policies to promote the welfare of wage-earning women, improve their working conditions, increase their efficiency, and advance their opportunity for profitable employment. The work of this Bureau has increased in importance during the war because of the number of women engaged in war production, many of whom may remain in the labor market. There is urgent need during the postwar period for information and advice to women workers, their employers, and the States as to maintenance of minimum standards of female employment, new work opportunities, and techniques of adjustment to peacetime labor requirements.

WAGE AND HOUR DIVISION

Under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, the Wage and Hour Division enforces the wage and hour provisions applying to employees engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate commerce. This division also administers the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act of 1936, which requires the recipients of Government supply contracts of $10,000 or more to operate upon a 40-hour basic workweek with overtime beyond that time, and to maintain specified standards for child labor and safety and health.

The appropriation in this title for traveling expenses shall be available, in an amount not to exceed $2,000, for expenses of attendance at meetings concerned with the work of the Bureau of Labor Statistics when incurred on the written authority of the Secretary of Labor. (Act of July 3, 1945, Public Law 124.)

Salaries and Expenses, Bureau of Labor Statistics (National Defense)—

[Salaries and expenses (national defense): For all expenses necessary to enable the Secretary of Labor, through the Bureau of Labor Statistics, in relation to the national security and defense, to perform the functions authorized by the Act of June 13, 1888, and other Acts (29 U. S. C. 1); to conduct studies relative to problems connected with labor likely to arise upon the termination of the existing emergent conditions in connection with defense activities throughout the United States, such expenses to include personal services in the District of Columbia and elsewhere, and other items otherwise properly chargeable to the appropriations under the Department of Labor for contingent expenses, traveling expenses, and printing and binding, and not to exceed $15,000 for the temporary employment of experts without regard to the civil-service and classification laws; $2,356,876: Provided, That not to exceed $585,913 shall be used for a cost of living study and report.] (Act of July 3, 1945, Public Law 124.)

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

Summary of estimates of appropriation for the fiscal year 1947, compared with appropriations for the fiscal year 1946

[The 1947 Budget estimates make specific provision for additional costs made necessary by pay legislation enacted near the close of the fiscal year 1945. The 1946 appropriations did not make specific provision for any such costs and thus the appropriations shown below are not comparable with the 1947 estimates to whatever extent deficiency appropriations may be necessary to meet these added costs]

[1] Total supplemental estimates of appropriation required for 1946 amount to $221,153,363. Estimated savings in certain appropriations in 1946 totaling $1,446,531 have been deducted from the estimated total supplemental appropriations required for 1946 to account for the estimated surplus on an appropriation basis of $21,723,163.

PROGRAM

As a result of nonwar activities being restricted to a minimum during the war, and shortages resulting from the war, the Postal Service during that period was reduced in many respects below an efficient operating level. The restoration of full service to the public as soon as possible is now contemplated. Consistent with that purpose, additional amounts have been included for personnel and equipment.

Transportation services between this country and foreign countries which were handled by war agencies without expense to the Post Office Department have been or will soon be returned to private operators. An additional amount for this service is included.

Under the act of July 6, 1945 (Public Law 134), sweeping changes were made in the salary structure of Postal Service field personnel, causing a continuing increase in work for the Department and the Inspection Service. Further, some 20,000 postal workers were placed on a fixed salary basis at a substantial increase in cost.

POSTAL REVENUE

Under rates established by the Congress the Post Office Department handles mail and performs certain special services for the public on a prepaid basis. In addition to service rendered to the public, certain important services are provided to other departments and agencies of the Federal Government for which the Post Office Department is reimbursed in a few cases.

Public use of the postal facilities reached its peak in 1945 when $1,314 million of postal revenue was recorded. It is expected that the reduction of personnel in the armed services will effect a very considerable decrease in the use of the mails which will not be entirely replaced by the expanded use of the mails by business. The original estimate for 1946 was $1,331 million which has now been revised to $1,300 million based upon the continuation of present postage rates.

It is anticipated that the postal revenue for 1947 will be $1,300 million which again is based upon the postage rate structure presently in effect. While no increase in revenue is estimated it is expected that there will be some changes in the use of the various classes of mail. It is also expected that there will be an increasing demand on the part of business and the public for faster and broader service.

POSTAL EXPENDITURES

The volume of work performed is governed by public demand. In addition, services provided to other departments and agencies of the Federal Government are on a similar basis. Expenditures for the Postal Service generally reflect significant changes in the use of its facilities and the volume of work, but they are not directly and proportionately affected by changes in the volume of revenues received.

Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis

The revised estimate for 1946 includes a $221 million additional amount to provide principally for the increased cost of pay legislation and some increases in postal business not anticipated at the time that the annual appropriation was made for that year. This will increase the original amount provided for 1946 by 17.5 percent.

The estimate of $1,298 million for 1947 is $20 million above the revised estimate for 1946. This is an over-all net increase of 1.6 percent.

While this net increase is not significant percentage-wise with relation to expenditures, some important purposes are served by it. Additional employees are provided for in the Department and the Inspection Service for permanent increases in workload and the reduction of the workweek; $10 million additional is included so that the First Assistant Postmaster General can begin the work of restoring services in post offices; nearly $1 million is added for increases in claims for money orders more than 1 year old and to provide additional stamped envelopes; over $6 million is included to provide for 5,780 new trucks which will allow replacement of all vehicles over 15 years old; $1 million is included for stamp-vending and postage-metering devises; and a miscellany of increases totaling about $6 million are included to provide for increased cost and use of services and supplies throughout the Postal Service.

A significant decrease of $4 million occurred in the estimate for the Second Assistant Postmaster General who has the general responsibility for transportation of mail. This saving results after allowing for an increase of over $6.6 million for Domestic Air Mail Service and is attributed to a large extent to the reduction of mail volume caused by the return of members of the military services.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Summary of estimates of appropriation for the fiscal year 1947, compared with appropriations for the fiscal year 1946

[The 1947 Budget estimates make specific provision for additional costs made necessary by pay legislation enacted near the close of the fiscal year 1945. The 1946 appropriations did not make specific provision for any such costs and thus the appropriations shown below are not comparable with the 1947 estimates to whatever extent deficiency appropriations may be necessary to meet these added costs]

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

GENERAL STATEMENT

The Department of State is the principal agency of Government responsible under the President for determining our foreign policy and conducting our foreign relations. While the more vital decisions on foreign policy are made by the President, negotiations with foreign countries, including specific measures for the protection of American interests, the promotion of friendly relations between the United States and other countries, and the conduct of the voluminous correspondence with our diplomatic missions abroad and with accredited representatives of foreign powers in this country are administered by the Department of State. Continued expansion and improvement of the Department is necessary to permit the participation of this country in measures designed to insure a peaceful world.

Numerous international activities of the Office of War Information, the Office of Inter-American Affairs, the Foreign Economic Administration, the Office of Strategic Services, and the Army-Navy Liquidation Commissioner were transferred by Executive order to the Department following the cessation of hostilities, and will be modified and programmed on a peacetime level. Time has not permitted the preparation of 1947 estimates for the performance of these functions. Furthermore, estimates for certain regular activities of the Department which are closely allied with the transferred functions have been deferred. An amendment to this Budget, to be submitted later in this fiscal year, will present the requirements, on an integrated basis, for those activities for which estimates have been deferred.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

An appropriation of $13,823,400 will be required for the geographic offices (American Republic Affairs, European Affairs, Far Eastern Affairs, Near Eastern and African Affairs), and the following functional offices: Transport and Communications Policy, International Trade Policy, Financial and Development Policy, Special Political Affairs, Public Affairs, Departmental Administration, Budget and Finance, Foreign Service, and Controls. Moderate expansion is planned in the Office of Special Political Affairs, which handles the bulk of the planning and operations in connection with international organizations, and in the functional offices concerned with administrative and economic affairs.

FOREIGN SERVICE

The Foreign Service of the United States is the instrument by which the Secretary of State maintains permanent representation abroad in the discharge of his responsibility to the President for the conduct of the foreign relations of this country. Since VE- and VJ-day the demands upon the Foreign Service have become greater than ever before. The regular political, economic, and consular functions of the Service have increased in size and complexity. Consular services have expanded, particularly in the liberated areas of Europe and the Far East, where thousands of American citizens require passports, protection, and repatriation, and tens of thousands of aliens have applied for visas. With the return of peace the Service is resuming to the full the promotion and protection of American commerce and trade abroad. Twelve offices have been reopened in the Far East and 16 in Europe; others will be reopened in the near future to make a total of at least 313 Foreign Service establishments in operation by July 1, 1946. In addition, the increasing scope of international cooperation demands the development of many new foreign relations activities which cannot be completely foreseen in advance.

Of the $53,177,300 requested under this head, $9,500,000 is for emergency use, principally for the relief and repatriation of American nationals stranded abroad. The remaining $43,677,300 is for salaries, allowances, and other operating expenses of the Foreign Service.

INTERNATIONAL OBLIGATIONS

International obligations, including contributions to international commissions, congresses, and bureaus will require $24,704,400. The principal increase is due to the inclusion of $10,800,000 for the work of the International Boundary and Water Commission, United States and Mexico, along the Rio Grande and west along the Mexican border to the west coast. Regular activities of the Commission will be necessarily increased due to the need for surveys, investigations, and deferred maintenance on already constructed projects. The sum of $9,790,000 is included for construction activities, the principal item of which is one of the three dams on the Rio Grande proposed in the treaty with Mexico proclaimed by the President November 27, 1945.

The amount of $6,100,000 is included to carry on an intensified program of cooperation with the other American republics. This program is based on the reciprocal and cooperative purposes enunciated in the treaties, resolutions, declarations, and recommendations previously signed by all the American republics. The projects under this program afford a practical means of carrying out the objective of strengthening the bond of inter-American solidarity.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT

Summary of estimates of appropriation for the fiscal year 1947, compared with appropriations for the fiscal year 1946

[The 1947 Budget estimates make specific provision for additional costs made necessary by pay legislation enacted near the close of the fiscal year 1945. The 1946 appropriations did not make specific provision for any such costs and thus the appropriations shown below are not comparable with the 1947 estimates to whatever extent deficiency appropriations may be necessary to meet these added costs]

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

GENERAL STATEMENT

The Treasury Department's appropriations provide for the performance of functions relating to the public debt, the collection of internal-revenue and customs duties, the manufacture of currency and coin, accounting, disbursing, and procurement operations, and for regulatory or enforcement activities administered by the Foreign Funds Control, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Bureau of Narcotics, the Secret Service, and the Alcohol Tax Unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The Treasury's estimates for 1947 do not include funds for the Office of Surplus Property, this function having been transferred from the Treasury Department to the Department of Commerce, effective May 1, 1945, and subsequently transferred to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. No funds for the salary stabilization unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue have been included in the estimates for the ensuing year in view of the expiration, on June 30, 1946, of the Stabilization Act of 1942, as amended, nor will funds for the collection of the use tax on automobiles be required during 1947 since this tax provision has been repealed, effective next June.

The total amount requested for 1947 for operating expenses of the Department, exclusive of the additional funds for pay increases required by recent legislation, is about 6 percent more than the 1946 appropriations for similar purposes. This increase results primarily from expanded operations in the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Bureau of Customs, which are offset by a substantial reduction in requirements of the Bureau of the Public Debt and by minor decreases in the requirements of certain other bureaus.

DEPARTMENTAL ADMINISTRATION

The administrative expenses of the Office of the Secretary in 1947 are estimated to be approximately the same as in 1946. However, a decrease of more than 15 percent is reflected in the estimated costs of penalty mail, under the act of June 28, 1944.

The 1947 administrative expense requirements of the Division of Tax Research, the Office of Tax Legislative Counsel, the Division of Research and Statistics, the Office of the General Counsel, the Division of Personnel, the Office of the Chief Clerk, and the Custody of Treasury Department Buildings, which provide for the general overhead activities of the Department, are estimated to be about the same as in 1946.

REVENUE COLLECTION

The Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Bureau of Customs are responsible for collecting a substantial portion of the Government's revenue.

The requirements of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for administrative expenses in administering the existing revenue laws represent a substantial increase for 1947 over the Bureau's appropriation for the current fiscal year. This increase is occasioned primarily by the expanded enforcement, collection, and service activities. The amount required for refunds of internal revenue is expected to decline measurably in 1947.

The administrative expenses for the Bureau of Customs show an increase of about 7 percent for 1947. The normal activities of this Bureau decreased considerably during the war and resulted in a corresponding reduction in personnel. Customs business increased gradually during the calendar year 1944, and the current trend indicates that the prewar levels of activities will be reached early in the fiscal year 1947. The additional funds to be required by the Bureau for 1947 contemplate the filling of some of the positions vacated during the emergency period. Requirements for refunds and drawbacks of customs receipts will be approximately equivalent to those of the current fiscal year.

PUBLIC DEBT OPERATIONS

The administrative expenses of the Bureau of the Public Debt show a reduction of over 20 percent for 1947, as compared with the current year. This reduction is due primarily to an anticipated reduction in the number of savings bonds to be issued and redeemed next year. Savings-bond promotional operations will be curtailed substantially in 1947 and will be restricted to the encouragement of bond sales through the pay-roll savings plan throughout the country. Interest on the public debt for 1947 shows an increase of about 5 percent over 1946.

CENTRAL FISCAL SERVICES

The Bureau of Accounts and the Office of the Treasurer of the United States are responsible for the receipt, safekeeping, and disbursing of the Government's funds, and for related accounting functions. The volume of work to be performed by the Bureau of Accounts in 1947 is expected to be substantially more than provided for within the current year's funds. This is due to an estimated increase next year in the number of veterans' and social-security payments. While these increases will also affect the Office of the Treasurer of the United States, they will be more than offset by decreases, as compared with 1946, in check payments for the War and Navy Departments. The resulting net reduction in the Treasurer's workload, together with savings to be accomplished through improved operating procedures, accounts for a decrease of about 9 percent in the requirements of that office for 1947.

MANUFACTURE OF COIN, CURRENCY, AND SECURITIES

The estimates for the Bureau of the Mint for 1947 reflect an estimated increase in the number of coins to be manufactured and the restoration of the mint's deposit and refining operations which were curtailed considerably during the war. The replacement of equipment which has deteriorated materially during the emergency will also require additional funds.

In the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, replacement of essential equipment which received excessive wear during the war is likewise accountable for an increase in requirements for 1947, despite a slight reduction in the volume of work to be performed.

REGULATORY AND ENFORCEMENT ACTIVITIES

The regulatory and enforcement functions of the Treasury Department are administered by the Foreign Funds Control, the Comptroller of the Currency, the Bureau of Narcotics, the Secret Service, and the Alcohol Tax Unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The Foreign Funds Control's activities are being curtailed gradually during the current fiscal year, and its 1947 requirements represent a 35-percent reduction as compared with 1946.

Anticipated increased workload in the Secret Service Division in 1947, together with the necessity for adjustment from a 48-hour to a 40-hour workweek, will necessitate an increase in force. All other regulatory and enforcement activities of the Department will be continued in 1947 at approximately their 1946 levels.

GOVERNMENT PROCUREMENT

A slight decrease in the regular procurement activities of the Treasury's Procurement Division is reflected in the Division's estimate for 1947, as compared with 1946.

TRUST ACCOUNTS

The estimates of appropriation for trust accounts for 1947 are slightly greater than appropriations for 1946. Anticipated benefit payments from the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund are expected to increase during the fiscal year 1947, and it is expected there will also be an increase in tax collections from employers and employees.

WAR DEPARTMENT

Summary of estimates of appropriation for the fiscal year 1947, compared with appropriations for the fiscal year 1946

[The 1947 Budget estimates make specific provision for additional costs made necessary by pay legislation enacted near the close of the fiscal year 1945. The 1946 appropriations did not make specific provision for any such costs and thus the appropriations shown below are not comparable with the 1947 estimates to whatever extent deficiency appropriations may be necessary to meet these added costs]

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

General Statement

The civil functions administered by the War Department consist of a group of activities only indirectly related to the active military establishment and are gathered under a separate head in the Budget to distinguish them from Army activities.

Appropriations for The Panama Canal are included in this chapter of the Budget, because The Panama Canal, while not a part of the War Department, is under direct supervision of the Secretary of War.

Civil Functions

QUARTERMASTER CORPS

The Secretary of War has the responsibility for acquiring land for and maintaining national cemeteries and marking the graves of war veterans. These activities have been delegated to the Quartermaster General and are financed by the appropriation "Cemeterial expenses." The increase of $774,300 reflects provision for purchase of a greater number of grave markers in 1947 than in 1946, and an increase in items of construction, repairs, and maintenance which have been deferred during the war.

SIGNAL CORPS

The Signal Corps of the Army maintains a communication system between the United States and Alaska and within Alaska, which handles commercial messages. It is planned to operate and maintain 32 stations in Alaska and 1 in Seattle, Wash., during 1947.

CORPS OF ENGINEERS

The Corps of Engineers, United States Army, under the supervision of the Secretary of War, is generally responsible for maintenance and improvement of rivers, harbors, and waterways of the Nation in the interest of navigation, control of floods, and related hydroelectric power development.

Navigation works: The funds for maintenance and operation of completed works and for surveys of modifications and further improvements thereof included in the 1947 budget estimates amount to $67,871,500. This amount is considered necessary to operate and maintain navigation facilities and to permit initiation of much needed major repairs and alterations postponed during the war. It includes $8,000,000 for the construction of one large seagoing hopper dredge for use principally in New York harbor.

The funds include $52,815,000 for improvement work of which $20,000,000 is for partial accomplishment of the Florida barge canal and $4,815,000 for advance planning.

Flood control: In 1917 the Corps of Engineers, in compliance with an act of Congress, extended its work in connection with rivers and harbors to include the undertaking of flood control works on the lower Mississippi River and the Sacramento River, Calif.

The authorized appropriation for flood protection and improvement of navigation on the lower Mississippi River is $864,934,000, exclusive of maintenance, of which about $345,000,000 remains to be provided. The funds proposed for the fiscal year 1947 provide for full maintenance of the navigation channel and flood control works and for continuation of the improvement project at the most economic and feasible rate.

The presently estimated Federal cost of the Sacramento River flood control project is $40,850,000, of which $30,695,000 has been appropriated. The estimate of $2,000,000 for fiscal year 1947 is to continue construction of the authorized improvement.

In 1936 the Congress adopted a national flood control policy and assigned responsibility for Federal investigations and improvements in connection therewith to the Corps of Engineers. The amount of $110,000,000 is included in the 1947 Budget estimates for continuing work on 62 flood control projects. In addition, $8,000,000 is included for advance planning; $3,764,000 for maintenance, operation, and repair of completed projects; and $3,000,000 for surveys.

UNITED STATES SOLDIERS' HOME

The United States Soldiers' Home at Washington, D. C., provides domiciliary and medical care to former soldiers of the Regular Army who qualify for admission under physical and age eligibility requirements. The Home is supported by monthly contributions of the soldiers of the Regular Army, court-martial fines, forfeitures of enlisted men and warrant officers, and interest on the principal. The increased funds for 1947 are principally to take care of an estimated increase of 190 members at the Home, for the improvements of the facilities, and for the adjustment of salaries of employees.

The Panama Canal

Appropriations for The Panama Canal provide funds for the maintenance and operation of the Panama Canal and for sanitation and government of the Canal Zone. While the summary table shows an increase in appropriations of $10,172,092 for 1947, this does not reflect the workload in the Canal Zone. The obligations for 1947 are estimated at $74,205,166, compared to $85,993,349 in 1946, while reimbursements and receipts (exclusive of revenues covered directly into the Treasury) are estimated at $52,888,817 in 1947, compared to $60,621,166 in 1946.

This leaves a total net obligation for 1947 of $21,316,349, compared to $25,312,183 for 1946. Revenues covered directly into the Treasury are estimated at $14,021,717 in 1947, compared to $12,901,437 in 1946.

Municipal Works, Panama and Colon—

Pursuant of Article VII of the 1903 Treaty with the Republic of Panama, contract was entered into in 1907 between the Isthmian Canal Commission (Panama Canal) and the Republic of Panama, under which the Commission constructed the water distribution and sewer systems, as well as some paving in the cities of Panama and Colon, in order to provide necessary utilities for those cities. The Panama Canal has maintained the water and sewer systems and pavements, and extends and improves them on properly authorized and approved requests by the Republic of Panama. The Canal has collected the water rentals from the water consumers and applies the proceeds thereof to cover the cost of the water; maintenance, extension, and improvement of the systems; amortization of the investment; and interest at the rate of 2 percent on the unamortized balance. In accordance with the joint resolution approved May 3, 1943 (Public Law 48), the transfer of the water and sewer systems in Panama and Colon is now being negotiated, and upon such transfer, interest and amortization will cease to accrue to the United States. The schedule below is based on the transfer being effected as of December 31, 1945. The estimated obligations beyond January 1, 1946, provide for expenditures from the accrued surplus to undertake any requested and approved extensions and improvements to the water and sewer systems.

[2] Includes 15 station wagons and 61 busses.

In addition to the foregoing sums there is [appropriated] hereby made available for the fiscal year [1946] 1947 for expenditures and reinvestment under the several heads of appropriation aforesaid, without being covered into the Treasury of the United States, and to remain available until expended, all moneys received by the Panama Canal during the fiscal year [1946] 1947 and prior fiscal years (exclusive of net profits for such prior fiscal years) from services rendered or materials and supplies furnished to the United States, the Panama Railroad Company, the Canal Zone government, or to their employees, respectively, or to the Panama Government, from hotel and hospital supplies and services; from rentals, wharfage, and like service; from labor, materials, and supplies and other services furnished to vessels other than those passing through the Canal, and to others unable to obtain the same elsewhere; from the sale of scrap and other byproducts of manufacturing and shop operations; from the sale of obsolete and unserviceable materials, supplies, and equipment purchased or acquired for the operation, maintenance, protection, sanitation, and government of the Canal and Canal Zone; and any net profits accruing from such business to the Panama Canal shall annually be covered into the Treasury of the United States.

There is also [appropriated] made available for the fiscal year [1946] 1947 for the operation, maintenance, and extension of waterworks, sewers, and pavements in the cities of Panama and Colon, to remain available until expended, the necessary portions of such sums as shall be paid during that fiscal year as water rentals or directly by the Government of Panama for such expenses; and notwithstanding the transfer of the waterworks and sewer systems pursuant to the joint resolution approved May 3, 1943 (Public Law 48), any unexpended balances of the sums [appropriated] made available by this paragraph, together with the unexpended balances of sums [appropriated] heretofore made available for the same purpose in prior fiscal years, shall be immediately available and shall remain available until expended for the purposes for which [appropriated] they were made available.

SEC. 2. [No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used directly or indirectly, except for temporary employment in case of emergency, for the payment of any civilian for services rendered by him on the Canal Zone while occupying a skilled, technical, clerical, administrative, executive, or supervisory position unless such person is a citizen of the United States of America or of the Republic of Panama: Provided, however, (1) That, notwithstanding] Notwithstanding the provision in the Act approved August 11, 1939 (53 Stat. 1409), limiting employment in [the above-mentioned] certain positions to citizens of the United States [from and after the date of the approval of said Act], citizens of Panama may be employed in such positions[; (2) that at no time shall the number of Panamanian citizens employed in the above-mentioned positions exceed the number of citizens of the United States so employed, if United States citizens are available in continental United States or on the Canal Zone; (3) that nothing in this Act shall prohibit the continued employment of any person who shall have rendered fifteen or more years of faithful and honorable service on the Canal Zone; (4) that in the selection of personnel for skilled, technical, administrative, clerical, supervisory, or executive positions, the controlling factors in filling these positions shall be efficiency, experience, training, and education; (5) that all citizens of Panama and the United States rendering skilled, technical, clerical, administrative, executive, or supervisory service on the Canal Zone under the terms of this Act (a) shall normally be employed not more than forty hours per week, (b) may receive as compensation equal rates of pay based upon rates paid for similar employment in continental United States plus 25 per centum; (6) this entire section shall apply only to persons employed in skilled, technical, clerical, administrative, executive, or supervisory positions on the Canal Zone directly or indirectly by any branch of the United States Government or by any corporation or company whose stock is owned wholly or in part by the United States Government: Provided further, That the President may suspend from time to time in whole or in part compliance with this section in time of war or national emergency if he should deem such course to be in the public interest].

SEC. 3. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used to pay the salary or wages of any person who advocates, or who is a member of an organization that advocates, the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or violence: Provided, That for the purposes hereof an affidavit shall be considered prima facie evidence that the person making the affidavit does not advocate, and is not a member of an organization that advocates, the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or violence: Provided further, That any person who advocates, or who is a member of an organization that advocates, the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or violence and accepts employment the salary or wages for which are paid from any appropriation in this Act shall be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both: Provided further, That the above penalty clause shall be in addition to, and not in substitution for, any other provisions of existing law.

SEC. 4. The Governor of the Panama Canal is hereby authorized to employ by contract or otherwise without regard to section 3709, Revised Statutes, and at such rates [(not to exceed $50 per day for individuals exclusive of necessary travel expenses)] as he may determine, the services of architects, engineers, and other technical and professional personnel, or firms or corporations thereof, as may be necessary.

SEC. 5. Appropriations for the Military Establishment and for civil functions administered by the War Department for the fiscal year [1946] 1947 may be used for carrying into effect the Act entitled "An Act to provide for the settlement of claims for damage to or loss or destruction of property or personal injury or death caused by military personnel or civilian employees, or otherwise incident to activities, of the War Department or of the Army", approved July 3, 1943. Summary of estimates of appropriation for the fiscal year 1947, compared with appropriations for the fiscal year 1946

[The 1947 Budget estimates make specific provision for additional costs made necessary by pay legislation enacted near the close of the fiscal year 1945. The 1946 appropriations did not make specific provision for any such costs and thus the appropriations shown below are not comparable with the 1947 estimates to whatever extent deficiency appropriations may be necessary to meet these added costs]

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

General Statement

The Federal district, designated as the District of Columbia, constitutes a political entity in which are exercised not only municipal but also county and State functions, such as public education, administration of justice, maintenance of a unit of the National Guard, promotion of family welfare, care of the indigent, custody of mental defectives and delinquents, protection of the interests of labor, metropolitan area planning, and so forth. While the municipal functions are administered principally by the Board of Commissioners, District of Columbia, most of the county and State functions are carried on by other agencies, some local and some Federal in character.

In contrast to this diversity of District administration, Congress only, under the Constitution, is empowered "to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever" on behalf of the District of Columbia as the seat of government of the United States, acting in municipal matters as a city council and in dealing with the broader aspects of the government of the District of Columbia as a county board and a State legislature. In this connection, Congress enacts the District's revenue measures and appropriates the money thus raised to carry on the government of the District of Columbia. Approximately 91 percent of the money is derived from local taxation and the remainder is paid by the Federal Government in the form of a lump sum of $6,000,000. Under the law, Congress requires that District estimates of appropriations be submitted to the Bureau of the Budget for scrutiny, processing, and incorporation with the estimates of the Federal agencies in the Budget of the United States. Furthermore, while District revenues from all sources are covered into the United States Treasury to the credit of one of the following funds, namely, the general fund, the highway fund, the water fund, or various trust funds, no expenditures can be made from any of these funds (other than trust funds) without specific appropriation by Congress.

The Bureau of the Budget does not examine the estimates of the District of Columbia in minute detail, but confines its attention more to matters of policy which concern the Federal Government, such as the revenue estimates, the allocation of capital outlay moneys, the orderly repayment of District indebtedness to the Federal Government, the amount of the Federal lump-sum payment, the adequacy of reserves to finance public works programs, and the balancing of the District budget.

Revenues

Estimates of revenues for the general, highway, water, and trust funds are to be found in Supporting Statement No. 1.

General fund revenues, exclusive of the sale of public works investment fund securities, amount to nearly 77 percent of the total revenues of the District. These revenues continue large because of the increase in population, property values, and business profits occasioned by the war. It is expected that the 1947 revenues will continue with little change, inasmuch as the population seems relatively stabilized. The largest item of revenue in the general fund is the real property tax, amounting to approximately 43 percent. The levy is based on an estimated assessed valuation of $1,410,000,000 taxed at the rate of $1.75 per hundred dollars. This valuation is $20,000,000 higher than that for the current year. Other important items in the 1947 general fund revenues are the tangible personal tax, the corporate income tax, the individual income tax, the motor vehicle personalty tax, and public utility taxes, all of which are expected to continue their present high yields. Existing sources and rates of revenues are expected to produce sufficient funds for 1947 expenditures as at present estimated. Any additional expenditures in 1947 will create a deficit. The District of Columbia must find new sources of revenue to finance any further enlargement of the general-fund expenditure program in the future.

Revenues for the highway fund have heretofore been adversely affected by certain war-related circumstances. The revenues for 1946 and 1947, however, are expected to rise gradually to their prewar levels. Other sources of revenue for the highway fund, such as the registration of motor vehicles and issuance of drivers' permits, are expected to approximate their present volume.

The water fund revenue estimates reflect little change in 1947 over 1946, exclusive of the sale of water fund securities.

Appropriations

Estimates of appropriations for the District of Columbia from the general, highway, water, and trust funds in 1947 are shown in Supporting Statement No. 2 and summarized for comparative purposes in the table at the beginning of this chapter. In explaining increases or decreases in the major items below, statutory pay increases are excluded from consideration.

General fund estimates for 1947 show an over-all increase of 10 percent over 1946 appropriations, exclusive of statutory pay increases. This difference, however, includes an increase of about 10 percent in operating expenses, a relatively large increase in the District debt service (general fund only), and about a 6-percent increase in capital outlays, including plans, construction, and purchase of sites.

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION

The 1947 estimates under this head show a small increase, chiefly for additional staff in the Office of Corporation Counsel.

FISCAL SERVICE

The 1947 estimates under this head show another small increase, chiefly for additional staff in the Auditor's office.

DISTRICT DEBT SERVICE

The 1947 estimates for debt retirement under the general, highway, and water funds represent an increase of about 120 percent above 1946 appropriations. They include the reimbursement of the United States for land purchases made for the District of Columbia for park, parkway, and playground purposes by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission under authority of the Capper-Crampton Act and repayments on defense loans from the Federal Works Administrator for highway-fund projects.

PUBLIC WORKS INVESTMENT FUND

The District proposes to finance its 1947 public-works construction program by selling some $8,000,000 of its investments in Federal securities. Following this action, there will remain in the fund for future construction about $2,000,000.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The rise in the school population of the District of Columbia and the necessity for providing additional school facilities in new residential areas require an increase in the 1947 estimates over the 1946 appropriations, principally for more teachers, replacement of equipment, and construction and furnishing of new buildings.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

The 1947 estimates under this head show substantial increases over the 1946 appropriations and include additional amounts for operating expenses, for plans and specifications for a number of new branch libraries, and for construction of additional branch libraries.

RECREATION DEPARTMENT

The 1947 estimates under this head reflect a large increase, principally for additional playground staffs and capital improvements.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

This activity includes the maintenance of various clinical services, the inspection of food and sanitation, the operation of the Tuberculosis Sanatorium, Gallinger Municipal Hospital, including the Upshur Street annex, the support of certain medical charities, and reimbursement of Freedmen's Hospital. The 1947 estimates for these activities show an increase over 1946 principally to provide for additional preventive and protective services and additional staff for District hospitals.

PUBLIC WELFARE

The Board of Public Welfare has general supervision over dependents, delinquents, and defectives in the District of Columbia. Large increases are proposed for child care, public assistance, institutions for the indigent, juvenile correctional service, adult correctional service, and the District Training School.

PUBLIC WORKS

Under this head are grouped the offices, divisions, and departments subject to the supervision of the Engineer Commissioner. The divisions and departments which are supported by highway-fund or water-fund revenues are specifically designated.

The estimates for public works activities payable from the general fund show an increase over current appropriations. This increase includes additional operating expenses for the office of Superintendent of District buildings; additional staff for the Surveyor's office; additional operating and capital outlay costs for the Electrical Division for street lighting and the District government's communication systems; additional cars for the Central Garage; additional funds for street cleaning, removal of refuse, and new construction; and additional outlays for maintenance, improvement, and extension of the District's sewer system.

The estimates for projects payable from the highway fund likewise show a considerable increase over current appropriations.

Public works items payable from the water fund (exclusive of the Washington Aqueduct which is treated below) likewise show an increase over 1946 for maintenance of the distribution system.

WASHINGTON AQUEDUCT

The estimates for this service, which is under the direction of the local field office of the United States Corps of Engineers, are substantially in excess of the 1946 appropriations and will provide for important capital improvements in the system, which is now being required to furnish a considerably increased volume of water not only to the District of Columbia but also to the surrounding metropolitan area.

RECLAMATION OF ANACOSTIA FLATS

The estimate for this project will permit the resumption of the work which was discontinued during the war years.

NATIONAL CAPITAL PARKS

The 1947 estimate under this head shows a substantial increase over the 1946 appropriation, chiefly for better maintenance of existing park areas.

NATIONAL ZOOLOGICAL PARK

The estimate for this agency (which is a part of the Smithsonian Institution) indicates a considerable increase over the 1946 appropriation and is required to meet rising maintenance costs and to pay for additional supplies and equipment.

SUMMARY OF OPERATIONS

The financial requirements of the District of Columbia are summarized in the tables which follow this statement. It will be noted from the summary of operations that the 1947 general fund expenditure program will exhaust all available funds with the exception of some $2,000,000 remaining in the public works investment fund. Impending pay increases, additional school and branch library construction, future expansion of the health and welfare programs, and the possibility of the District being required to reimburse the Federal Government for its share in future capital improvements such as the Federal courts building, replacement of obsolete buildings at Saint Elizabeths Hospital, replacement of the general medical building at Freedmen's Hospital, and acquisition of additional park, parkway, and playground land in the District of Columbia, all point to the need for augmenting the District's general fund, if it is to continue solvent. The 1947 highway fund program, while in excess of current revenues, contemplates the use of previously accumulated surpluses to pay for the proposed capital outlay items. The 1947 water fund program constitutes the beginning of a major improvement program which will continue for many years. This program will be paid for the first year out of available surpluses, current revenues, and the sale of water fund investment securities. Thereafter, new sources of revenue must be found to continue the program as planned. Trust fund balances are expected to continue without much change, the District unemployment compensation fund balance constituting most of the total.

Capital Outlay, Juvenile Correctional Service, Public Welfare, District of Columbia—

[The appropriation of $58,000 in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act, 1945, for the acquisition of land in the vicinity of the District Training School near Laurel, Maryland, as a site for the National Training School for Girls, together with the unexpended balance of the appropriation of $42,000 for this purpose in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act, 1944, is continued available until June 30, 1946.]

[Capital outlay: For preparation of plans and specifications for new buildings for the Industrial Home School, to be constructed at a cost not to exceed $600,000 on a new site near Laurel, Maryland, $18,000, which amount may be credited to the appropriation account, "Office of Municipal Architect, construction services".]

[The unexpended balance of the appropriation of $40,000 for the construction of temporary building for the National Training School for Girls on a new site to be acquired in Maryland, contained in the District of Columbia Appropriation Act, 1944, is reappropriated and made available during the fiscal years 1946 and 1947 for repairs, alterations, and improvements to existing buildings on the new site acquired near Laurel, Maryland, for the National Training School for Girls, including furniture and equipment and the installation of necessary utilities.]

Capital outlay: For the construction and equipment of new buildings on land now owned by the District of Columbia near Laurel, Maryland, to replace the present Industrial Home School, $600,000. (Act of June 30, 1945, Public Law 103; Act of Dec. 28, Public Law 269.)

Capital Outlay, Street and Bridge Divisions, Highway Fund, District of Columbia—

Capital outlay, Street and Bridge Divisions (payable from highway fund): For personal services and all expenses necessary for the grading, surfacing, paving, repaving, widening, altering, and otherwise improving streets, avenues, roads, and alleys, including curbing and gutters, directional and pedestrian islands at various intersections to permit of proper traffic-light control and channelization of traffic, drainage structures, culverts, suitable connections to stormwater sewer system, retaining walls, replacement and relocation of sewers, water mains, fire hydrants, traffic lights, street lights, fire-alarm boxes, police-patrol boxes, and curb-line trees, when necessary, Federal-aid highway projects under section 1 (b) of the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1938, and highway structure projects financed wholly from the highway fund upon the approval of plans for such structures by the Commissioners; for carrying out the provisions of existing laws which authorize the Commissioners to open, extend, straighten, or widen streets, avenues, roads, or highways, in accordance with the plan of the permanent system of highways for the District of Columbia, and alleys and minor streets, and for the establishment of building lines in the District of Columbia, including the procurement of chains of title; and for assessment and permit work, paving of roadways under the permit system, and construction of sidewalks and curbs around public reservations and municipal and United States buildings, including purchase or condemnation of streets, roads, and alleys, and of areas less than two hundred and fifty square feet at the intersection of streets, avenues, or roads in the District of Columbia, to be selected by the Commissioners, [$2,600,000] $3,815,000, to remain available until June 30, [1947] 1948: Provided, That appropriations contained in this Act for highways, sewers, city refuse, and the Water Division shall be available for snow removal when ordered by the Commissioners in writing: Provided further, That the Commissioners are hereby authorized to purchase a municipal asphalt plant at a cost not to exceed $30,000: Provided further, That in connection with the highway planning survey, involving surveys, plans, engineering, and economic investigations of projects for future construction in the District of Columbia, as provided for under section 10 of the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1938, and in connection with the construction of Federal-aid highway projects under section 1 (b) of said Act, and highway structure projects financed wholly from the highway fund, this appropriation shall be available for the employment of engineering or other professional services by contract or otherwise, and without regard to section 3709 of the Revised Statutes and the civil-service and classification laws, and for engineering and incidental expenses: Provided further, That this appropriation shall be available for the construction and repair of pavements of street railways in accordance with the provisions of the Merger Act (47 Stat. 752), and the proportion of the amount thus expended which under the terms of the said Act is required to be paid by the street-railway company shall be collected, upon the neglect or the refusal of such street-railway company to make such payment, from the said street-railway company in the manner provided by section 5 of the Act of June 11, 1878, and shall be deposited to the credit of the appropriation for the fiscal year in which it is collected: Provided further, That assessments in accordance with existing law shall be made for paving and repaving roadways, alleys, and sidewalks where such roadways, alleys, and sidewalks are paved or repaved with funds herein appropriated: Provided further, That in connection with projects to be undertaken as Federal-aid projects under the provisions of the Federal Aid Highway Act of December 20, 1944, the Commissioners are authorized to enter into contract or contracts for those projects in such amounts as shall be approved by the Public Roads Administration, Federal Works Agency: Provided further, That this appropriation may be used for payment to contractors and for other expenses in connection with the expense of design, construction, and inspection of grade-crossing elimination and other construction projects authorized under section 8 of the Act of June 16, 1936 (49 Stat. 1521), and section 1 (b) of the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1938, pending reimbursement to the District of Columbia by the Public Roads Administration, Federal Works Agency, reimbursement to be credited to fund from which payment was made: Provided further, That the Commissioners are authorized to fix or alter the respective widths of sidewalks and roadways (including tree spaces and parking) of all highways that may be improved under appropriations contained in this Act: Provided further, That no appropriation in this Act shall be available for repairing, resurfacing, or paving any street, avenue, or roadway by private contract unless the specifications for such work shall be so prepared as to permit of fair and open competition in paving materials as well as in price: Provided further, That in addition to the provision of existing law requiring contractors to keep new pavements in repair for a period of one year from the date of the completion of the work, the Commissioners shall further require that where repairs are necessary during the four years following the said one-year period, due to inferior work or defective materials, such repairs shall be made at the expense of the contractor, and the bond furnished by the contractor shall be liable for such expense: Provided further, That no appropriation in this Act shall be used for the operation of a testing laboratory of the Highway Department for making tests of materials in connection with any activity of the District government. (Act of June 30, 1945, Public Law 103.)

SEC. 2. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act or authorized hereby to be expended shall be used to pay the compensation of any officer or employee of the Government of the United States, or of the District of Columbia unless such person is a citizen of the United States, or a person in the service of the United States or the District of Columbia on the date of the approval of this Act who being eligible for citizenship had theretofore filed a declaration of intention to become a citizen or who owes allegiance to the United States. This section shall not apply to citizens of the Commonwealth of the Philippines or nationals of those countries allied with the United States in the prosecution of the war effort.

SEC. 3. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used to pay the salary or wages of any person who advocates, or who is a member of an organization that advocates, the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or violence: Provided, That for the purposes hereof an affidavit shall be considered prima facie evidence that the person making the affidavit does not advocate, and is not a member of an organization that advocates, the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or violence: Provided further, That any person who advocates, or who is a member of an organization that advocates, the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or violence and accepts employment the salary or wages for which are paid from any appropriation contained in this Act shall be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both: Provided further, That the above penalty clause shall be in addition to, and not in substitution for, any other provisions of existing law.

SEC. 4. Whenever in this Act an amount is specified within an appropriation for particular purposes or object of expenditure, such amount, unless otherwise specified, shall be considered as the maximum amount which may be expended for said purpose or object rather than an amount set apart exclusively therefor.

SEC. 5. The Commissioners are authorized, under available appropriations in this Act, to contract for stenographic reporting services without regard to section 3709 of the Revised Statutes.

SEC. 6. Work performed for repairs and improvements under appropriations contained in this Act may be by contract or otherwise, as determined by the Commissioners.

SEC. 7. In purchasing motor-propelled or animal-drawn vehicles or tractors, or road, agricultural, manufacturing, or laboratory equipment, or boats, or parts, accessories, tires, or equipment thereof, the Commissioners or their duly authorized representatives may exchange or sell similar items and apply the exchange allowances or proceeds of sales in such cases in whole or in part payment therefor.

[SEC. 8. The Commissioners are hereby authorized in their discretion, to invest at any time in United States Government securities, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, any part of the general fund, highway fund, water fund, or trust funds, of the District of Columbia, not needed to meet expenses during the current fiscal year, to deposit the interest accruing from such investment to the credit of the fund from which the investment was made, and to sell or exchange such securities for other Government securities, and deposit the proceeds to the credit of the appropriate fund.]

[SEC. 9. Section 7 of the District of Columbia Appropriation Act, 1945, is amended to read as follows: "Hereafter appropriations for the District of Columbia shall be used to pay increases in the salaries of officers and employees by reason of the reallocation of the position of any officer or employee by the Civil Service Commission, and administrative promotions within the several grades: Provided, That such reallocation increases and administrative promotions shall be subject to the approval of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia: Provided further, That officers and employees whose positions were reallocated by the Civil Service Commission during the period January 1, 1945, to July 1, 1945, who have not received such reallocation increases shall be entitled to receive them retroactively to the date they would otherwise have been effective except for the provisions of said section 7, but in no case prior to January 1, 1945."]

[SEC. 10. Appropriations herein made available for the purchase of passenger-carrying vehicles, with the exception of those to be purchased for use by the Fire Department and the Metropolitan Police, shall be available only for the purchase of used or Federal surplus motor vehicles.]

SEC. 8. Appropriations in this Act shall be available, when authorized by the Commissioners, for allowances for privately owned automobiles used for the performance of official duties at not to exceed $264 per annum for each automobile, unless otherwise therein specifically provided.

SEC. 9. Appropriations in this Act shall be available for the payment of dues and expenses of attendance at meetings of organizations concerned with the work of the District of Columbia Government, when authorized by the Commissioners.

SEC. 10. The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to sell United States securities now held for and on account of the general fund of the District of Columbia in such amounts as may be certified by the Commissioners as necessary and credit the proceeds of such sale to said general fund.

SEC. 11. Unless otherwise specifically provided, no appropriation for the District of Columbia for the fiscal year 1947 shall be expended to purchase any motor-propelled passenger-carrying vehicle (exclusive of busses, ambulances, and station wagons) at a cost, completely equipped for operation, and including the value of any vehicle exchanged, in excess of the maximum price therefor established by the Office of Price Administration and in no event more than $1,050, which amount shall be in addition to the amount required for transportation.

Relief and Rehabilitation, District of Columbia Workmen's Compensation Act—

This fund is derived from collections of awards against employers made by the United States Employees' Compensation Commission, as compensation for death of employees resulting from injuries, in each case where no person is found to be entitled to such compensation, under the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act as extended to certain employments in the District of Columbia. Fines and penalties collected in connection therewith are also credited to the account. One-half of each such collection is available as compensation for injuries increasing previous disabilities, the other half being available for maintenance of employees undergoing vocational rehabilitation. Any portion of the account which, in the opinion of the Commission, is not needed for current requirements, is invested in bonds or notes of the United States or of any Federal land bank, the interest therefrom being credited to this account. Notes

The following notes explain the lines in the table insofar as they differ from the concepts used by the Department of Commerce, as explained in the Survey of Current Business for March 1943, or where fuller explanation is required than is given in the stubs of the table. The 1944 figures are based on official estimates made by the Department of Commerce. Figures for 1945 are preliminary.

Line

4 Includes United States savings bonds and Treasury bills.

5 Includes premiums paid for Government life insurance and national-service life insurance, interest on trust fund investments, and miscellaneous trust account receipts.

6 The estimates of gross national product from the expenditure side and those obtained from the income side are conceptually identical but differ because of statistical imperfections. Following the practice of the Department of Commerce, the adjustment has been made on the income side of the table and has been taken into account by making equal deductions from consumers' income and business income (line 23).

7 This differs from the Commerce concept of disposable income in that line 3 has been added to income payments and lines 4, 5, and 6 have been deducted from income payments.

13 This differs from the Commerce concept. See note to line 7.

15 This differs from the Commerce concept in that postwar credits for excess profits tax refundable in the postwar period are here included in Federal corporate tax liabilities.

17 This differs from the Commerce concept because of the difference explained in the note to line 15.

18 This agrees with Commerce concepts and includes: Depreciation and depletion charges, other business reserves; capital outlays charged to current expense; and inventory revaluation adjustment.

21 Includes: Renegotiation of war contracts; purchase of existing assets; net receivables; capital transactions; reimbursable lend-lease; lend-lease silver exports; net loan transactions of Government corporations excluding investment in United States securities; and refunds excluding excess profits tax refund bonds.

22 The renegotiation payments included here are made in discharge of previous liabilities and hence differ from the figures for renegotiation liabilities in line 21.

23 See note to line 6.

24 The Department of Commerce does not present a single figure for business receipts, but presents separately corporate savings and business reserves. Retained earnings of unincorporated business are not included in undistributed profits and reserves of business since they are counted as consumers' savings.

25 This agrees with the Department of Commerce procedure and includes residential building even when financed by individuals and used for private purposes.

29 This differs from the Department of Commerce concept because War Department relief to other countries is included as a Government expenditure for goods and services and not as an export item. It follows the Commerce procedure in that reimbursable lend-lease and relief administered by UNNRA are included as export items.

31 The figures for business receipts and business expenditures are not strictly comparable with each other because of the statistical imperfections noted in lines 24 and 25.

32 Tax liabilities and nontax payments and contributions by the public to State and local social insurance funds are adjusted to a receipts basis. Intra-governmental and noncash transactions are excluded.

33 Expenditures for goods and services as defined by the Department of Commerce are adjusted to a budgetary basis. Intra-governmental and noncash transactions are excluded.

35–36 Receipts from the public, other than borrowing and payments to the public correspond to the concepts used in the Budget table of payments to and receipts from the public which is explained in appendix 1.

38–44 These adjustments are made to reconcile this appendix with Commerce totals for gross national product.

38 These items, included in business income (line 21) and in Government expenditures, are not regarded as payments made for current production and are therefore deducted from total receipts.

39 This corresponds to the Commerce concept of transfer payments to individuals and includes: Pensions, relief payments, allowances to soldiers, mustering-out pay, etc. These items, included in consumers' income and in Government expenditures, are not regarded as payments made for goods and services currently produced and are therefore deducted from total receipts and expenditures.

40–42 These items, included in the Commerce concept of gross national product have not been included elsewhere in the table.

45–46 These totals correspond to the Commerce concept of gross national product.

FEDERAL ACTIVITIES IN PUBLIC WORKS

INTRODUCTION

This section of part III of the Budget document presents an analysis of the public works activities of the Federal Government. The detailed estimates for these activities are included in part II under the agency responsible for the activity, but the various parts of the public works program have been brought together here to give a more complete presentation of the capital improvements in which there is Federal participation. Such activities are reflected in the annual Budget through (1) appropriations for direct Federal construction and for loans and grants for non-Federal construction, (2) loan authorizations for non-Federal construction, and (3) construction outlays by Government corporations.

In previous Budgets, the general public works section carried in part II included only general and special account appropriation items which were predominantly public works in character. While Federal highway grants were included, no Federal loan programs were contained in the section. Furthermore, emergency outlays, including Federal grants under the Public Works Administration, national defense construction, and outlays of most Government corporations for public works were excluded.

In contrast, this section includes Federal outlays for both defense and civil public works, whether through direct construction or through loans or grants. Where readily available, information is also given on public works expenditures of Government corporations.

For purposes of this section, the term "public works" is defined as construction of public character, for governmental or community service, built at public cost. "Construction" is defined as the design and production of fixed works and structures, or substantial alterations to land, involving either the provision of new works or major additions, alterations and replacements of existing work. Appropriation items for maintenance and repair of existing works are not included in this section. In those public works appropriation items containing large amounts for maintenance, the maintenance portion has been excluded. Land improvements which do not involve major structures or substantial land alterations are excluded from the scope of this definition. Where land acquisition costs are included as part of a construction appropriation, such costs are included, as it was not practicable, in preparing this section, to segregate such land acquisition costs from the costs of construction.

Through the grouping in this section of all major items involving the planning and construction of public works, it is intended to present a more complete description of the public works activities of the Federal Government. The following discussion describes the over-all Federal public works program for fiscal year 1947, the individual programs by major purposes, and the individual agency programs. The tabulation which follows the discussion presents appropriations and obligations for planning and construction of public works, by appropriation title or subappropriation category, for fiscal years 1945, 1946, and 1947.

1. TOTAL FEDERAL PROGRAM

The total public works program as recommended in this Budget is largely a civil works program, public construction for defense purposes becoming once more a minor part of the whole.

Federal expenditures for defense and civil public works through direct construction, through loans and grants and by Government corporations, are estimated to reach $1,740,000,000 during fiscal year 1947, compared with estimated expenditures of $1,962,000,000 during fiscal year 1946 and $1,978,000,000 in fiscal year 1945, as shown below:

[In millions of dollars]

	Estimated, 1947	Estimated, 1946	Actual, 1945
National defense construction, continental United States [1]	387.0	1,038.0	1,683.0
Civil public works	1,353.1	923.9	294.8
Total	1,740.1	1,961.9	1,977.8

[1] Excludes expenditures by the War Department for the Manhattan District project.

Federal expenditures for national defense construction reached a peak in fiscal year 1943, and decreased rapidly in later years. For fiscal year 1946, national defense expenditures continue at a high rate because of substantial payments for work put in place during previous fiscal years. The decline in defense construction expenditures in fiscal year 1947 will be partially offset by the increase of peacetime civil public works.

Civil Public Works

During the war, construction of civil works has been held to a minimum consistent with the public health and safety and the furtherance of the war program. The expenditure of $295,000,000 for civil works during fiscal year 1945 reflects the relatively low level of such work as compared with prewar years when expenditures for regular Federal projects, exclusive of relief programs, averaged over $700,000,000 annually. During fiscal year 1946, Federal civil works expenditures are estimated to rise to $924,000,000, and in fiscal year 1947 a further substantial increase is estimated, to a total of $1,353,000,000.

This 1947 civil works program will be considerably larger than the average prewar Federal program because of the need for completion of suspended projects and for provision of additional facilities resulting from the halting of projects in process and the reduction of new civil construction during the war. Moreover, existing programs have been greatly expanded by congressional authorization. These include programs for highways, rural electrification, veterans hospitals, flood control, and reclamation. The 1947 program, however, has been restricted to those projects which will contribute toward reconversion and stimulation of private industry and which will return the greatest economic and social benefits.

The expenditure estimates given above must be considered as tentative at this time, as the progress of Federal civil works during the last 6 months of fiscal year 1946 and during fiscal year 1947 will depend to a great extent upon the availability of materials and manpower and the level of material and labor costs and contractors' bids. If the construction industry is reasonably successful in early 1946 in reconverting to civilian construction, Federal public works expenditures could approach the estimates as shown above.

Programs undertaken during fiscal year 1947 will commit the Federal Government to estimated additional expenditures of $3,000,000,000 in later years to complete projects or programs being carried on during 1947. This estimate includes Federal-aid highway commitments and completion of flood control and reclamation projects, but is exclusive of presently authorized projects and programs for which appropriations may be recommended in future years.

The following tabulation shows actual civil works expenditures for the major construction agencies for fiscal year 1945, together with estimated expenditures for fiscal years 1946 and 1947.

Federal civil public works expenditures

Appropriations.—The amounts appropriated for fiscal years 1945 and 1946 reflected the wartime curb on Federal construction. Appropriations for civil works totaled $165,900,000, and loan authorizations, $25,000,000 for fiscal year 1945; for fiscal year 1946 appropriations in the regular annual appropriation acts increased to $277,100,000, and loan authorizations to $200,000,000. When Japan surrendered in August 1945, Federal construction agencies had available only some $650,000,000, including funds carried over from previous years, for prosecution of civil public works in fiscal year 1946. This amount was insufficient to permit resumption of public works activity at a rate consistent with urgent needs.

Accordingly, the Congress, acting upon the President's recommendations, appropriated additional funds totaling $406,000,000 for planning and construction of civil public works and $191,900,000 for construction of temporary housing for veterans for fiscal year 1946, increasing total appropriations for the year to $875,000,000. For fiscal year 1947, appropriations totaling $977,000,000, and loan authorizations totaling $250,000,000 are recommended for civil public works. Of this total, $693,000,000 are for direct Federal planning and construction and $534,000,000 are for Federal loans and grants to non-Federal agencies.

Such appropriations are considered to be adequate to resume certain Federal programs deferred during the war, and to carry forward, in an orderly manner and at an economic rate, the projects and programs initiated with supplemental appropriations during fiscal year 1946. These 1947 appropriations, however, are proposed only for carrying out programs already authorized. Congress is now considering legislation for construction of airports, hospitals, facilities for pollution control, Federal buildings, and educational and recreational facilities. Authorization of any of these programs by the Congress would require additional appropriations to enable undertaking of such programs.

Surveys and Detailed Plans

Surveys.—Recommended appropriations for preliminary surveys and investigations for Federal public works total $24,500,500 in fiscal year 1947. This compares with $19,306,735 for preliminary surveys for fiscal year 1946. These appropriations are not included in the appropriations for construction discussed above, as the funds are used for investigations for determining the need and feasibility of construction projects rather than for preparation of construction plans and specifications. These funds will enable the Federal construction agencies to accelerate to some extent the preliminary studies required to develop economically sound and socially desirable projects for undertaking in later years, in accordance with the policy expressed by the President of preparing plans now for future public works.

Detailed plans.—Funds which have been appropriated for fiscal year 1946 for preparation of detailed construction plans for direct Federal projects total $27,423,134. Recommended appropriations for fiscal year 1947 for this purpose total $24,887,985. These funds are included in the totals of appropriations for construction discussed above.

In addition to appropriations made specifically for detailed plans, Federal agencies have substantial funds available from construction appropriations to apply toward preparing detailed plans for projects. This will permit some further acceleration of planning, but additional steps will be necessary during the coming year to bring planning activities to a level that will assure an adequate reserve of planned projects.

The following tabulation summarizes the major appropriations made for detailed planning of direct Federal construction:

Appropriations for detailed plans, Federal public works

Agency	Recommended, 1947	Actual, 1946
Bonneville Power Administration	$301,000	$1,160,000
Southwestern Power Administration	500,000	----
Bureau of Indian Affairs	420,000	----
Bureau of Reclamation	7,500,000	6,439,059
National Park Service	2,613,385	107,500
Fish and Wildlife Service	139,000	----
Corps of Engineers	12,815,000	16,435,000
Other	599,600	3,281,575
Total	24,887,985	27,423,134

Appropriations totaling $30,000,000 were made for fiscal year 1946 for advances to State and local governments for preparation of detailed plans for public works. Additional appropriations would be required to continue this activity through fiscal year 1947.

2. PROGRAMS BY MAJOR PURPOSES

Federal construction activities are directed toward five broad purposes: Resource conservation and development (including land development, water control and utilization, and power development), transportation, housing, community and welfare services, and Government administration. The following paragraphs give a brief description of the major purposes to be served by Federal capital improvements, with emphasis upon the function rather than on the agency or agencies responsible for carrying out the program.

Resource Conservation and Development

The Federal construction program for development of natural resources will be resumed during the second half of fiscal year 1946 and in fiscal year 1947, after having been greatly curtailed during the war years. Congress has appropriated $183,000,000 in supplemental funds for fiscal year 1946 and an additional $652,000,000 are recommended to be made available in fiscal year 1947. In addition to completing a large number of projects which had been halted during the war, these funds will permit some expansion of urgently needed programs and preliminary work on a number of key projects in region-wide development programs. Expenditures for resource conservation and development are estimated at $451,900,000 for fiscal year 1946 and $652,800,000 for fiscal year 1947.

Control and use of water is a major activity in resource conservation and development. It involves multiple-purpose structures to control flood waters, provide water for irrigation, aid navigation, and to convert the energy of falling water into electric power for industrial and domestic uses. Different types of these capital improvements receive varying degrees of emphasis in different parts of the Nation. In the Western States irrigation is of primary importance, although most structures which impound waters for irrigation also restrict the flow of flood waters. In the Eastern and Southern States, control of stream flow to prevent flood damage and aid navigation is of greater importance. In most cases where dams are constructed to impound water, electric power is a useful byproduct. Forest development and soil conservation aid in the control and use of water by retarding run-off and by decreasing erosion and consequent siltation of streams.

The program which is presented here for fiscal year 1947 includes large multiple-purpose projects in most of the principal river valleys of the Nation. Some of these projects are key parts of regional or basin-wide developments. Although the forms of organization required for these developments have not, in all cases, been determined, these projects will fit into any type of regional development program which may be established. Of particular importance are the projects in the Central Valley of California and the Arkansas, Colorado, Rio Grande, Columbia, and Missouri River valleys west of the Mississippi River, and the Alabama-Coosa, Connecticut, Cumberland, Ohio, Roanoke, and Savannah River valleys in the East. The three principal Federal agencies engaged in constructing major water development projects are the Bureau of Reclamation, the Corps of Engineers, and the Tennessee Valley Authority. Capital improvement programs for upstream flood control work will be carried out during fiscal year 1947 in a few critical areas throughout the country by the Forest Service and the Soil Conservation Service.

Capital outlays for power development are intimately associated with the undertaking of large multiple-purpose river development projects. It is proposed during fiscal years 1946 and 1947 to install additional power generating units in a number of existing multiple-purpose dams. In addition, many of the larger dams programed for undertaking in fiscal year 1947 will contain power features. In some cases, turbines and generator units will be installed immediately upon completion of the dams; in other cases, penstocks will be installed in order that power units may be added to the projects as required in later years. Power developments are proposed for construction by the Bureau of Reclamation, Corps of Engineers, and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Power transmission and distribution facilities will continue to be required in fiscal year 1947 for the marketing of power developed, as an incident to other purposes, at Federal multiple-purpose developments. Construction of additional transmission and distribution facilities estimated to cost $53,500,000, are programed for fiscal year 1947 to enable Federal agencies to market power formerly used for war purposes to public bodies, cooperatives and other peacetime industrial users. Such facilities are proposed for construction by the Department of the Interior through the Bonneville Power Administration, the Southwestern Power Administration, and the Bureau of Reclamation, and by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Federal assistance for rural electrification is proposed to be expanded in fiscal year 1947 to make available $250,000,000 for loans to local cooperatives and public bodies for extension of distribution lines to rural areas. A total of $200,000,000 of loan funds has been made available for fiscal year 1946. This program is under jurisdiction of the Rural Electrification Administration. Expenditures for such lines are estimated at $156,000,000 for fiscal year 1946 and $241,000,000 for fiscal year 1947.

The 1947 estimates propose a resumption of the construction program for forest, park, and wildlife developments, which were almost entirely suspended during the war. The forest program involves construction of development roads and trails and structures in national forest areas and on other public lands. This program is carried out by the Forest Service and the land development agencies of the Department of the Interior including the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the National Park Service, and the Fish and Wildlife Service. Park development includes construction of roads and trails and structures in the national parks and other areas under jurisdiction of the National Park Service. Capital improvements for fish and wildlife development are undertaken at Federal fish hatcheries and on wildlife refuges, largely by the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Improvement programs of a nonstructural nature, such as reforestation, forest protection and improvement, and soil conservation, while highly important parts of resource conservation and development, are not covered by this analysis which is limited to construction programs.

Although the volume of capital improvements for resource conservation and development is being stepped up in fiscal year 1947, planning for future programs is not being neglected. For fiscal year 1947, $21,900,000 is recommended for preliminary surveys, and $17,286,000 is recommended for preparation of detailed plans for resource conservation and development projects.

Transportation

Federal outlays for construction of transportation facilities will be greatly expanded during fiscal year 1947, after the relatively low level of activity during the war years. For fiscal year 1947, $424,500,000 is recommended to be appropriated for transportation facilities, as compared with the $166,900,000 for fiscal year 1946. Expenditures for fiscal year 1947 are estimated at $415,500,000 as compared with $298,400,000 for fiscal year 1946. The principal transportation program of the Federal Government is for grants-in-aid for highway construction by non-Federal agencies. The road program was largely directed during the war toward improvement of strategic defense highways and access roads to critical raw materials; construction of new highways and improvement of existing highways not related to defense need were largely deferred during the war. The 1947 program is based upon the full-scale resumption of the Federal-aid program at a level to reach $500,000,000 per year of Federal grants as soon as practicable. In addition to grants-in-aid for highway construction which are handled by the Public Roads Administration, the Federal Government also constructs major highways through the national forests, builds and maintains roads in Alaska and participates in construction of the Inter-American Highway. Funds are recommended in the 1947 Budget for these purposes.

Capital improvements for air transportation are also being recommended for fiscal year 1947. During the war, the Federal Government expanded airport facilities throughout the country, both through construction of Army and Navy airports and through provision of defense airports in cooperation with local communities. These programs are now being brought to a close, and the Federal program recommended in the 1947 Budget is limited to improvement of the Federal airways system. Should Congress approve the postwar Federal aid airport program now pending, the Federal Government would greatly increase its peacetime capital improvement outlays for air transportation.

Federal construction of navigation improvements was almost entirely halted during the war, except for a few river and harbor projects needed for the national defense. This program is being resumed on a small scale with $35,600,000 appropriated for fiscal year 1946. For fiscal year 1947, an additional $55,700,000 of appropriations is being recommended for new river and harbor construction, to be undertaken by the Corps of Engineers.

Housing

Federal participation in assisting and stimulating housing construction includes direct Federal construction of war housing, subsidies for low-rent housing, and Federal assistance through loan guarantees and indirect financing of home loan agencies. During the war, the Federal Government has engaged in a large program of construction of defense housing in areas where critical housing shortages existed. After VJ-day, this program was halted and no new construction was undertaken. In order to alleviate the critical housing shortage for veterans, however, the Congress appropriated $191,900,000 of supplemental funds for fiscal year 1946 to the National Housing Agency for conversion of defense housing into temporary housing for veterans.

The Federal Government has certain commitments outstanding with local housing authorities to provide loan funds for low-rent housing under the United States Housing Act of 1937. However, further Federal participation in housing programs is dependent upon the passage of additional housing legislation now pending in the Congress.

Community and Welfare Services

Federal capital outlays for community and welfare services include structures of a widely varying nature, such as hospitals, schools, and penal institutions. The bulk of the program in this classification for fiscal year 1947 is for veterans hospitals for which appropriations of $147,000,000 of the total of $160,000,000 are recommended. These veterans hospitals are urgently needed to care for the great increase in the number of veterans requiring hospital attention and rest-home services. Expenditures for veterans hospitals in fiscal year 1946 are estimated at $55,000,000; in fiscal year 1947, $130,000,000.

The remainder of the program in this category is limited for the present to community services, education, health, and penal purposes in which there is a special Federal interest, such as for Indians, Howard University, Panama Canal, Federal prisons, and the Virgin Islands. For fiscal year 1947, $13,000,000 is recommended to be appropriated for buildings and facilities for these purposes. Very little construction work was undertaken for any of these purposes during the war, and there is now an urgent need for additional construction in these fields. Expenditures in fiscal year 1947 are estimated to reach $55,000,000, including expenditures under loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to public agencies.

Additional expenditures for community and welfare services are contingent upon enactment of legislation by the Congress providing for Federal loans and grants for construction of hospitals and health centers, educational facilities, and stream-pollution control facilities.

Government Administration

In this grouping are included buildings and facilities for Government administration, research, and miscellaneous purposes. During the war, construction of permanent office buildings has been deferred, although there was a considerable amount of construction of research buildings, chiefly from national defense funds. For fiscal year 1947 total appropriations of $14,000,000 for structures for Government administration are recommended. These structures include research facilities for the Bureau of Mines and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, foreign service buildings, and major additions to public buildings. Expenditures for such facilities for fiscal year 1947 are estimated at $24,700,000. No appropriations are recommended in fiscal year 1947 for construction of new Federal public buildings by the Public Buildings Administration, as the future public buildings program is dependent upon action by the Congress on legislation now pending.

3. AGENCY PROGRAMS

Federal activities in public works are carried out by various agencies of the Federal Government which have, in general, a responsibility for the function which is to be served by the construction program. The following paragraphs describe briefly the construction activity of each agency, identifying it with the agency's functional responsibility, and relating the activity to the appropriation recommendations for fiscal year 1947.

Independent Offices

National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics

Public works appropriations of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics provide the funds necessary to build and initially equip laboratory facilities at the three research laboratories operated by the Committee. These laboratories are the Langley Memorial Aeronautical Laboratory, Langley Field, Va.; Ames Aeronautical Laboratory, Moffett Field, Calif.; and Aircraft Engine Research Laboratory, Cleveland, Ohio. Of the total appropriation of $3,098,000 recommended for fiscal year 1947, $2,990,000 is for modifications to wind tunnels and for electric power equipment at Langley Field; the remaining $108,000 is for construction of a fuels laboratory at Cleveland.

TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY

For fiscal year 1947 an estimated $42,329,000 is required for construction and acquisition of capital assets by the Tennessee Valley Authority. For this program, $28,791,000 is tentatively estimated to be required from new appropriations, and an estimated $13,538,000 would be provided from the corporate funds which are composed of the receipts of the Tennessee Valley Authority. These estimates are tentative because the 1947 budget programs of Government corporations, including the Tennessee Valley Authority, have not yet been prepared, but will be transmitted to the Congress in the spring as a supplement to the regular Budget.

VETERANS ADMINISTRATION

Beginning in fiscal year 1946, the Veterans Administration greatly accelerated its program of hospital construction to provide additional facilities for the increasing number of veterans requiring hospital and rest home care. For fiscal year 1946, a total of $242,820,000 has been appropriated for construction of new hospitals, and additions to existing hospitals to provide a total of 29,445 additional beds. Of the appropriation of $147,442,500 recommended for fiscal year 1947, $127,668,000 is earmarked for construction of additional facilities providing 13,422 hospital beds. The remaining $19,774,500 is to begin a 3-year program of major alterations, repairs, and reconditioning at existing veterans facilities. The alteration program is required for undertaking urgent maintenance work deferred during the war and for extensions and enlargements of related service facilities, such as quarters for personnel and recreational facilities, made necessary because of revisions in standards and increases in capacity at the hospitals.

Construction of veterans hospital facilities will be a continuing program for the next several years. Appropriations for 1946 and 1947 will total $390,262,500, as compared with a total authorization of $500,000,000 for veterans hospital construction contained in the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act of 1944.

Federal Security Agency

COLUMBIA INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF

The recommended appropriation of $7,500 is for plans and specifications for construction of buildings and facilities, under the supervision of the Public Buildings Administration.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY

The 1947 Budget recommends funds for beginning a program of new building construction at Howard University. A total of $154,800 is recommended for plans and specifications for three men's dormitories, administration building, law building, biology building, and greenhouse, and alterations to the science building. In addition, $3,017,000 is recommended for construction of an engineering building, women's dormitory units, auditorium and fine arts building, and a dental building, under the construction supervision of the Public Buildings Administration. Funds for detailed plans for the buildings were appropriated in fiscal year 1946.

Federal Works Agency

PUBLIC BUILDINGS ADMINISTRATION

Recommended appropriations for the Public Buildings Administration for fiscal year 1947 make no provision for new public building construction. However, $1,500,000 is recommended for major repairs and improvements to public buildings in and near the District of Columbia. During fiscal year 1947, this agency expects to obligate $6,100,000 for construction purposes, largely from funds available from previous years. Additional appropriations for the planning and construction of Federal public buildings are contingent upon Congressional action on legislation now pending which would authorize an over-all program of Federal building construction.

PUBLIC ROADS ADMINISTRATION

Appropriations totalling $305,838,792 are recommended for fiscal year 1947 for highway development including the Federal-aid highway program carried on through State highway departments. The recommended appropriations are required to liquidate obligations incurred under the authority of previously approved contract authorizations.

The funds provided for in the 1947 estimates will permit the Public Roads Administration to proceed with an expanded peacetime highway construction program. The agency's program was restricted during the war to those projects which were necessary for war purposes. Furthermore, State highway departments were unable to carry on their normal reconstruction and maintenance work during the war. An expanded highway program is necessary to restore and improve the Nation-wide highway systems that have fallen into disrepair during the war.

A total of $175,000,000 of appropriations is recommended for fiscal year 1947 for Federal-aid postwar highways authorized in the Federal-aid Highway Act of 1944; for fiscal year 1946, an initial appropriation of $25,000,000 has been made available to start this program. The apportionment of the first postwar fiscal year authorization of $500,000,000 was made January 6, 1945; the Congress on October 2, 1945, released the full amount of this authorization for construction and provided that for the purpose of the Federal-aid Highway Act of 1944, the first postwar fiscal year would be the fiscal year ending June 30, 1946. Programs under this authorization have been submitted providing for the improvement of 7,575 miles of highway.

An additional $108,000,000 is recommended for fiscal year 1947 to meet cash requirements of the regular Federal-aid highway and grade-crossing programs authorized before the war. These programs include projects deferred because of the war and urgent improvements to the strategic highway network carried on during the war. The deferred projects provide for the improvement of 1,600 miles of highway, the construction of 45 highway-railway grade-crossing separations and the installation of protective devices at 50 crossings. The active program provides for the improvement of 1,400 miles of highway, the construction of 51 highway-railway grade-crossing separations, and the protection of 91 highway-railway crossings.

Appropriations totalling $17,838,792 are recommended for fiscal year 1947 for the strategic highway network and access roads programs, in order to pay the Federal share of the cost incurred by the States in completing the defense highway program authorized by the Defense Highway Act of 1941.

The United States is participating, through the Public Roads Administration, in the improvement of the Inter-

American Highway from the southern border of Mexico to Panama City, a distance of 1,586 miles. Although only about 450 miles of this section have been paved, 800 miles of the unpaved portion are open to traffic the year around, while 160 miles are impassable in wet weather, and about 176 miles are impassable to traffic. During the past year work has gone forward on grading the unimproved sections of the highway, on widening narrow sections, bridge building, and on surveys for future work. An appropriation of $5,000,000 is recommended for fiscal year 1947 to carry on the work on this project.

BUREAU OF COMMUNITY FACILITIES

This unit of the Federal Works Agency is responsible for completing the war public works program of community facilities required during the war; the public works advance planning program authorized by the Congress in title V of the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act of 1944; and a program of public works construction in the Virgin Islands. For the war public works program no new appropriations are recommended for fiscal year 1947, as all new commitments for this purpose ceased after the surrender of Japan.

For public works advance planning $30,000,000 was appropriated during fiscal year 1946, these funds to be used for advances to State and local governments to prepare detailed plans and specifications for needed and worthwhile public works. No new appropriations are recommended for fiscal year 1947, but supplemental requests will be made as additional funds are required to carry out the President's program of providing a sizable reserve of public works projects planned and ready for construction.

An appropriation of $2,000,000 is recommended for construction, by the Bureau of Community Facilities, of public works projects in the Virgin Islands. A total of $1,366,210 was appropriated for this purpose in fiscal year 1946. These funds represent about one-third of the total authorized program, costing $10,028,420, of specific public works projects on the islands of St. Croix, St. Thomas, and St. John, to assist in the internal development of the islands, and to provide necessary services for the inhabitants. Included in the program are hospitals, sanitation and malaria control works, sewerage and water supply systems, facilities for fire protection, schools, roads, public buildings, prisons, recreation and communication facilities, abattoirs, and public markets.

National Housing Agency

During the war the National Housing Agency, through its constituent unit, the Federal Public Housing Authority, has engaged in a construction program to provide housing for in-migrant war workers. This program was substantially completed before the surrender of Japan; hence, no new appropriations were made for the fiscal year 1946. Operations during fiscal year 1946 have consisted largely of completing those projects which were in an advanced stage of construction. The agency is now turning its attention to the problem of disposing of the war housing units.

In the meantime the National Housing Agency has been directed by Congress to make the war housing accommodations available for use as temporary housing for families of servicemen and veterans. An appropriation of $191,900,000 has been made for dismantling and moving war housing buildings to locations where required by veterans. Under this appropriation, the National Housing Agency will furnish approximately 100,000 dwelling accommodations to educational institutions, State and local public agencies, and nonprofit organizations, the housing to be erected on sites acquired and supplied by these agencies.

In addition to the direct construction mentioned above, the Federal Public Housing Authority will reactivate locally owned low-rent projects, for which loan contracts and commitments were made before the war. The outstanding commitments for these projects amount to about $100,000,000.

Department of Agriculture

OFFICE OF EXPERIMENT STATIONS

An appropriation of $56,000 is recommended for construction of seven buildings at the Federal Experiment Station, Puerto Rico.

BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

For fiscal year 1947 appropriations are recommended for construction of a poultry research building, at a cost of $30,000, and enlargement of the Zoological laboratory building, at a cost of $75,000, at the Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, Md.

FOREST SERVICE

The 1947 Budget recommends the resumption of the forest highways, roads, and trails program which was virtually suspended during the war years. For forest highways, $23,714,222 is recommended to be appropriated for fiscal year 1947, as compared with actual appropriations of $3,500,000 in fiscal year 1946. Construction of forest highways, which form an integral part of our Nation-wide highway transportation system, is carried out by the Public Roads Administration. These highways are built to the same standards as the contiguous Federal-aid highways, and are of primary importance to the States, counties, and communities near the national forests. For forest development roads and trails, $12,500,000 is recommended for fiscal year 1947, as compared with actual appropriations of $6,418,778 for fiscal year 1946. These funds provide for the maintenance of existing roads and trails as well as for new construction. Forest development roads and trails are built primarily for the protection and management of the national forests rather than for general travel purposes, although they are generally open to public travel. These roads are built by the Forest Service with local labor.

In addition, an appropriation of $1,560,000 is recommended to be appropriated from the receipts of the national forests for forest road and trail development in national forests. This is estimated to be 10 percent of all the receipts and is used for expenditure on national forests in the States from which the receipts were collected.

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

An appropriation of $700,000 is recommended for fiscal year 1947 for land improvements on water conservation and utilization projects undertaken cooperatively with the Bureau of Reclamation, Department of the Interior. This program has as its objective the stabilizing of western agriculture by providing settlement opportunities for needy farm families, including returning veterans and war workers with farm backgrounds. Through development of these projects, sound land and water use in the arid and semiarid regions of the country will be promoted by rehabilitating and expanding irrigated lands. The 1947 appropriation contemplates a program similar to that for fiscal year 1946.

FARM SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

For the water facilities program, an appropriation of $1,000,000 is recommended for fiscal year 1947, to provide small water facilities to farmers in the western arid and semiarid regions. The recommended appropriation is substantially the same as the actual appropriations for the two previous fiscal years. Of the total, $778,233 is available for loans to farmers for construction of wells, ponds, windmills, storage tanks, and cisterns, and $221,767 is available for technical guidance and administration.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION ADMINISTRATION

The rural electrification program of the Federal Government was almost entirely suspended during the war, largely because of the shortage of critical materials. The program, which involves loans to rural electric cooperatives for construction of electric generating and distribution systems, was resumed during fiscal year 1946 when Congress authorized the Rural Electrification Administration to borrow $200,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for loans to cooperatives. For fiscal year 1947 an additional $250,000,000 of borrowing authority is recommended, to continue the rural electrification program at an accelerated rate. Under the program loans are also provided for the wiring of premises and for the acquisition of electrical and plumbing appliances by people in rural areas.

The ultimate goal is an almost complete electrification of rural areas, which is expected to be accomplished over a 10-year period, at an estimated total cost of $1,825,000,000.

FLOOD CONTROL

That part of the Nation's flood control program for which the Department of Agriculture is responsible has been at a standstill during the war. It will be reactivated by resuming the surveys and investigations that are necessary before actual construction plans can be developed, and by initiating a small volume of construction.

Department of Commerce

CIVIL AERONAUTICS ADMINISTRATION

The recommended appropriation of $18,680,000 for the Civil Aeronautics Administration is for the construction of air navigation facilities on the Federal airways. The program for the fiscal year 1947 includes the construction of very high frequency radio ranges, airport approach light systems, instrument landing systems, and intermediate landing fields. This work is for improving air navigation within the present airways system, and for providing the necessary navigation facilities for 4,000 additional miles of airways.

Congress appropriated funds for additional construction at the Washington National Airport in fiscal year 1946. No appropriations for further construction are recommended for fiscal year 1947, but it is possible that the demands on this airport may require additional construction at a later date.

Legislation for a national airport construction program, which is now being considered by the Congress, will place with the Federal Government responsibility for sharing the cost of construction and improvement of airports with State and local governments. Should this legislation be enacted, funds will be required by the Civil Aeronautics Administration for the preparation of a national airport plan and for grants-in-aid to State and local governments for airport construction.

COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY

The construction program for the Coast and Geodetic Survey for fiscal year 1947 is limited to the building of a magnetic and seismological observatory at College, Alaska, and a dwelling at Gaithersburg Observatory, Gaithersburg, Md., for which a total appropriation of $129,400 is recommended.

Department of the Interior

BONNEVILLE POWER ADMINISTRATION

The recommended appropriation for the Bonneville Power Administration for the fiscal year 1947, together with the unobligated balance of prior appropriation, will provide $16,973,069, for construction of transmission lines, substations, and appurtenant facilities, and the acquisition of construction equipment. This construction program is sufficient only to take care of the immediate need, while further surveys and studies are made on lines that will be required to serve the peacetime electric loads that are developing in the Northwest. Included in the amount is $5,066,050 for transmission line projects approved by the Congress in prior years, but deferred because of wartime shortages, $8,706,000 for new transmission line projects, $2,500,019 for miscellaneous minor system extensions and capital additions, $301,000 for surveys and designs, and $400,000 for tools and equipment.

Construction programs in recent years have been for the purpose of supplying power and energy to the war industries in the Northwest. The programs for 1946 and 1947 are directed, for the most part, toward providing electric service to public bodies and cooperatives which are given preference under existing law.

SOUTHWESTERN POWER ADMINISTRATION

The Southwestern Power Administration is responsible for the sale and distribution of surplus electric energy generated at projects under control of the War Department in Louisiana, Arkansas, southern Missouri, southeastern Kansas, most of Oklahoma, and eastern Texas. Only two of these projects, the Norfork and Denison Dams, are completed and in operation. Because of the shortages of labor and materials, the Southwestern Power Administration has not yet constructed transmission lines or other facilities required to carry out the policy laid down in the Flood Control Act of 1944 which provides that preference in the sale of electric energy from such projects shall be given to public bodies and cooperatives.

It is now becoming possible for the Administration to build or purchase the transmission facilities and fuel-electric generating stations which it requires. The recommended appropriation of $23,000,000 provides $11,151,635 for transmission lines, $3,460,085 for feeder lines, service connections and the like, $6,688,230 for fuel-electric generating stations, $500,000 for plans and specifications for future projects, $200,000 for tools and equipment, and $1,000,050 for administrative and general expense chargeable to construction.

Construction of the transmission lines covered by this recommended appropriation will provide the initial development of a network that will ultimately interconnect the electric installations in existing multiple-purpose projects with those proposed by the Corps of Engineers for future construction in this area. Surplus power and energy will be transmitted to municipalities, cooperatives, industries, and other customers who need an abundant supply of low-cost electricity. The principal transmission lines in the 1947 program will interconnect Norfork and Denison Dams with the Pensacola Dam of the Grand River Dam Authority of the State of Oklahoma, with private utilities, and with the proposed Corps of Engineers projects at Bull Shoals and Table Rock, Ark. Feeder lines from the network will provide service to customers of the Administration.

BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS

The recommended appropriations of $5,424,250 for the Bureau of Indian Affairs are to permit this agency to resume construction of roads and trails, buildings and utilities, and improvements to irrigation systems on Indian reservations, chiefly in the West. Construction work for these purposes was almost entirely suspended during the war, and accordingly, certain improvements are now urgently needed.

An appropriation of $954,250 is recommended for improvements to 16 Indian irrigation developments in the West, and for surveys and investigations, for which $100,000 is provided from the above appropriation. This will enable the agency to continue irrigation improvement work at about the same rate as in fiscal year 1946, and to prepare plans for a larger program of needed work for future undertaking.

For construction and planning of buildings and utilities, $1,350,000 is recommended to be appropriated for fiscal year 1947. Including funds carried over from previous years, this will provide for a program of construction, totaling $1,589,052, in 32 Indian jurisdictions, including Alaska, and will provide $200,000 for plans and surveys for future projects. For fiscal year 1946, a program aggregating $439,940 is under way, financed from previously appropriated funds.

For planning and construction of Indian reservation roads, $3,120,000 is recommended for fiscal year 1947. These funds will enable the Bureau to resume new construction of Indian reservation roads, and will allow the preparation of detailed plans for additional road projects which can be undertaken as needed in future years. A total of $120,000 is included in the above amount for such planning.

BUREAU OF RECLAMATION

During the fiscal year 1947, the Bureau of Reclamation will expand construction of reclamation projects in the 17 Western States, a program that has been curtailed greatly during the war. Appropriations totaling $139,000,000 are recommended in fiscal year 1947 for continuing construction of reclamation projects which have been started or accelerated under fiscal year 1946 construction appropriations totaling $103,948,100. Also, $11,000,000 is recommended in fiscal year 1947 for general surveys and investigations, $5,090,000 for surveys in the Missouri River Basin, and $500,000 for surveys of the Colorado River Basin. These amounts are not shown in the following statement.

The appropriations recommended for 1947 will permit resumption of construction on 27 projects which were started before the war and which were deferred or curtailed as not being essential to the war program. In addition, they will provide limited amounts for continuing three new projects which are being started with 1946 appropriations.

Although primarily directed toward irrigation of arid or semiarid lands, Bureau of Reclamation projects are, more often than not, multipurpose in nature, combining flood control and power development features as benefits supplemental to the primary purpose. During 1947 construction will proceed on major multiple-purpose projects in the Columbia River Basin, Central Valley of California, Missouri River Basin, and the Colorado River Basin. In the Columbia River Basin, $30,000,000 is recommended for 1947, the major part of which will be for starting the irrigation features of the Columbia River Basin project to utilize water stored in Grand Coulee Reservoir. In addition, $2,000,000 is recommended for continuing work on the Hungry Horse Dam in the Columbia River headwaters in Montana.

In the Central Valley of California, $25,000,000 is recommended for completion of various units of the Central Valley project, including substantial completion of Keswick Dam, continuing construction on the Shasta Dam and power plant, Keswick power plant, Delta-Mendota Canal, the Friant-Kern Canal to provide irrigation water from Friant Dam to the South San Joaquin River Valley, and for construction of transmission lines to provide more effective utilization of power now generated at Shasta Dam. In addition, $200,000 is recommended for 1947 for planning of the irrigation features of the Kings River project, a multiple-purpose dam which is being designed by the Corps of Engineers.

For the development of the Missouri River Basin, $23,783,600 is recommended for fiscal year 1947. Of this, $18,693,600 is for prosecution of construction work on 11 projects throughout the basin, and $5,090,000 is for surveys and investigations in the Missouri River Basin preliminary to the detailed planning of projects. In making these surveys, the Bureau of Reclamation, in addition to using its own staff, makes use of other resource development agencies in the Department of the Interior, including the Geological Survey, Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Fish and Wildlife Service, and the National Park Service. For fiscal year 1947, $2,940,000 of the $5,090,000 recommended to be appropriated is for surveys by these agencies. The program of the Bureau of Reclamation on the headwaters of the Missouri River is complementary with the Corps of Engineers plans for the lower Missouri Basin for flood control and navigation.

In the Colorado River Basin, the 1947 estimates provide $15,000,000 for continuation of construction of Davis Dam on the main stream between Arizona and California; $1,000,000 for continuation of work on Boulder Dam; and $5,500,000 for canal construction on the All-American Canal. There is also recommended an appropriation of $15,000,000 for work on the Colorado-Big Thompson project, Colorado, which will result in transmountain diversion of water from the upper Colorado watershed to the Platte River watershed in the Missouri River Basin.

In addition, to the projects mentioned above, the 1947 estimates would provide $26,606,400 for work on 21 projects scattered throughout the 17 Western States.

The program of the Bureau of Reclamation as provided for in 1946 appropriations and as recommended for fiscal year 1947 is based upon a modest expansion from the low wartime level of construction to an enlarged peacetime program. These appropriations will bring toward completion those projects started before the war in which there is a continuing economic loss because of their incomplete state. They will allow construction to proceed on new projects started in 1946, which are designed to provide irrigated farm lands for returning veterans. Also, first steps can be taken with 1947 appropriations toward larger river basin developments which will not reach a full construction stage for 3 or 4 years. Emphasis is placed in the 1947 appropriations upon continuing and expanding preliminary surveys and investigations so that additional projects can be presented for authorization in future years. This will result in the Bureau of Reclamation becoming more adequately prepared to proceed with an expanded construction program in future years as economic conditions warrant.

BUREAU OF MINES

Recommended appropriations for the Bureau of Mines for fiscal year 1947 include $4,640,320 for construction. Of this amount, $4,190,320 is for construction work incident to establishing demonstration plants for the experimental production of synthetic liquid fuels from coal, oil shale, agricultural and forest products. This program was started during fiscal year 1945, and about $6,000,000 has already been obligated for construction of plants during fiscal years 1945 and 1946.

An appropriation of $450,000 is also recommended for fiscal year 1947 to build and equip a research laboratory in the Pennsylvania anthracite region for use in studying the mining, utilization, and market development of anthracite coal.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

A total of $23,757,721 is recommended for resuming the construction program in areas under jurisdiction of the National Park Service, including the national parks, monuments, and parkways. This program was halted early in the war period, and a considerable amount of new work is therefore needed to bring the national parks up to peacetime standards. This will enable the Park Service to give more adequate service to the increased number of vacationers who are expected to use the national parks.

Of the total, $15,000,000 is for continuing construction and maintenance of the Blue Ridge, Natchez Trace, George Washington Memorial, and Foothills parkways. During 1947, a program of major road construction will be undertaken on the parkways, in cooperation with the Public Roads Administration. In addition, buildings and utilities will be constructed, and plans and surveys made for continuing construction in later years. The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1944 authorizes a total of $30,000,000 for parkway construction over the 3 postwar fiscal years. Of the $15,000,000 recommended for 1947, $10,000,000 is provided to cover the first year's authorization under the 1944 Highway Act, and $5,000,000 is provided for work under previous authorizations.

An appropriation of $5,900,000 is recommended for new construction of roads and trails in national parks and other areas under jurisdiction of the Park Service. Of this sum, $750,000 is for planning and construction of minor roads and trails essential to the improvement and development of areas in national parks and $5,150,000 is for resuming construction of major National Park roads, in cooperation with the Public Roads Administration. Included in the above appropriations are $223,250 for preparation of advance plans for a construction program of minor and major roads exceeding $8,000,000 in cost.

For physical improvements in national parks an appropriation of $2,500,000 is recommended for fiscal year 1947. Under this program, necessary physical facilities, such as administration buildings, utilities, and recreation structures, will be provided where urgently needed in national parks and other areas operated by the Park Service throughout the country, as well as in the parks of the Nation's capital.

In addition to construction appropriations, there are recommended $357,721 for advance planning of buildings and utilities in national parks and in the National Capital park system. These funds are required to enable the Park Service to prepare a larger reserve of construction projects for undertaking in later years.

FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE

Recommended appropriations for the Fish and Wildlife Service for fiscal year 1947 include $472,500 for construction of buildings and facilities. Of this amount, $333,500 is for construction at the White Salmon, Wash., Corning, Ark., Meridian, Miss., and Beltsville, Md., fishery stations, and for new construction on Alaska streams and at Alaska fishery stations; and $75,000 is for engineering surveys of existing fishery stations preliminary to preparing detailed plans for future construction projects. The sum of $64,000 is also recommended for surveys and detailed plans for construction of needed facilities and improvements at existing Federal wildlife refuges, to prepare a reserve of projects which can be undertaken in later years.

An appropriation recommendation for fiscal year 1947, not shown in the following statement, is for $150,000 for river basin studies by the Fish and Wildlife Service, to determine the effects upon fish and wildlife resources of river basin developments now being undertaken or studied by other Federal agencies. This is a new program made necessary by the resumption of postwar river basin programs.

TERRITORY OF ALASKA

The recommended appropriations of $3,550,000 for roads, bridges, and trails will provide $1,000,000 for the continuing of reconstruction and improvement of the Richardson Highway, $2,300,000 for the construction of new roads, and $250,000 for surveys and plans for future construction of roads, bridges, and trails.

From the permanent appropriation of the Alaska Railroad, an allowance of $884,000 is recommended for fiscal year 1947 to provide for construction requirements incident to the operation of the Alaska Railroad from the seacoast to Fairbanks, Alaska.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

FEDERAL PRISON SYSTEM

An appropriation of $813,500 is recommended to meet the new construction requirements of the Federal Prison System. Of this total, $142,300 is for the establishment of a small unit to begin surveys and advance planning of a program for future construction, alteration, and improvement of the institutions operated by the Bureau of Prisons. The remaining $671,200 is for specific items of construction, equipment, and alterations in existing institutions.

FOREIGN SERVICE BUILDINGS FUND

An appropriation of $1,000,000 is recommended for the construction and furnishing of residences and office buildings for the Foreign Service in various countries throughout the world. Plans are being made to accelerate the construction program in fiscal year 1948 and in later years.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY AND WATER COMMISSION, UNITED STATES AND MEXICO

This agency has charge of construction of certain flood control, rectification, and sanitation projects along the United States-Mexico border as provided for by treaty and agreement between the two countries. During 1945 both countries ratified a treaty which provides, among other things, for construction of three major flood control and irrigation dams on the lower Rio Grande. It is proposed in fiscal year 1947 to start construction on the first of these dams, for which $8,000,000 is recommended to be appropriated. In addition, $1,345,000 is recommended for continuation of flood control, rectification, canalization, and bank protection along the Rio Grande, as provided for in previous treaties; $45,000 is recommended for detailed plans for future projects; $300,000 is recommended for construction of a border fence; and $200,000 is recommended for construction of a sanitation system at Nogales, Ariz.

The program of this agency is expected to increase substantially in the years immediately subsequent to fiscal year 1947, as the three large storage dams provided in the treaty are constructed.

War Department, Civil Functions

THE QUARTERMASTER CORPS

An appropriation of $150,224 is recommended for fiscal year 1947 for construction at 10 national cemeteries. Most of this amount will be used for necessary improvements to roads and walks or for the construction of minor utility buildings.

CORPS OF ENGINEERS

Appropriations totaling $212,720,000 are recommended for fiscal year 1947 for detailed planning and construction of river and harbor and flood control projects by the Corps of Engineers. These appropriations provide for continuing construction on projects resumed during fiscal year 1946 following the surrender of Japan. A total of $191,489,600 has been appropriated in fiscal year 1946 for prosecution of flood control and river and harbor work.

For river and harbor works, a total of $48,000,000 is recommended for construction, and $4,815,000 is recommended for preparation of detailed construction plans. For fiscal year 1946, $35,640,600 has been appropriated for such river and harbor projects. Funds are recommended to be made available in fiscal year 1947 for beginning construction of the Florida Barge Canal; for waterway construction on the Atlantic, Pacific, and Gulf coasts and the Great Lakes; and for navigation improvements on the inland and intracoastal waterways. Planning funds are proposed for fiscal year 1947 for beginning detailed plans for construction of McNary Dam on the lower Columbia River, Oregon and Washington, and the Snake River navigation dams in Oregon, Washington, and Idaho, as well as for other river and harbor projects.

An appropriation of $2,900,000 is recommended for the payment of the Federal share of the cost of altering six bridges which obstruct river traffic.

For continuation in fiscal year 1947 of the flood control program resumed during fiscal year 1946, $110,000,000 is recommended for construction, and $8,000,000 is recommended for detailed plans for future projects. For fiscal year 1946, $118,299,000 has been appropriated for resumption of this program.

The Corps of Engineers flood control program includes a number of comprehensive river basin flood control plans, including those on the Merrimack and Connecticut Rivers in New England, the Susquehanna, Ohio, Missouri, Arkansas, White, and Willamette Rivers. Included in this program are a number of major multiple-purpose dams on river basins throughout the country. These projects, although primarily for flood control, often include features for power development, irrigation, and other purposes. The 1947 flood control program includes the continuation of construction work on the following multiple-purpose projects: Buggs Island reservoir on the Roanoke River, Virginia; the Clark Hill project, Savannah River, Georgia and South Carolina; Allatoona Reservoir, Coosa River, Georgia; Narrows and Blakely Mountain reservoirs, Arkansas; Fort Gibson Reservoir, Arkansas River Basin, Oklahoma; Bull Shoals Reservoir, White River, Arkansas; Garrison Reservoir, on the Missouri River in North Dakota; and Wolf Creek, Dale Hollow, and Center Hill Reservoirs, Cumberland River Basin, Tennessee and Kentucky. The 1947 program also provides for planning of additional flood control projects, including some with multiple-purpose features, such as the reservoir projects in the Central Valley of California.

In addition to the general flood control appropriation, $35,000,000 is recommended to be appropriated for continuation of construction work in the alluvial valley of the Mississippi at the most economic and feasible rate; for fiscal year 1946, $35,000,000 has been appropriated for this program. A total of $864,934,000 has been authorized for protection against floods and improvement of navigation on the lower Mississippi River. Of this amount, $345,000,000 remains to be appropriated, including the $35,000,000 recommended for fiscal year 1947. An additional $500,000 is recommended for fiscal year 1947 for emergency flood control on the Mississippi River and tributaries.

There is recommended $2,000,000 for fiscal year 1947 for continuation of flood control construction on the Sacramento River, California, for which $2,050,000 has been appropriated in fiscal year 1946. The presently estimated Federal cost of the Sacramento River project is $40,850,000, of which $30,695,000 has already been appropriated.

An appropriation of $1,505,000 is also recommended for completing the installation of a hydroelectric power plant at the Fort Peck Dam, Mont. A part of the initial installation of power facilities was deferred because of the war.

THE PANAMA CANAL

A total of $5,598,981 is recommended for appropriations for public works for the Panama Canal in fiscal year 1947. This amount will provide $1,253,381 for new housing, schools, and minor buildings. An expansion of the water supply system will require $2,169,000. In addition, $527,000 is provided for construction or rebuilding of roads and streets, $1,118,000 is included for dredging work on the third locks project, and $531,600 is for miscellaneous construction items in the Canal Zone.

4. PROGRAMS NOT YET AUTHORIZED

In addition to the public works programs discussed in the foregoing, for which appropriations are recommended for fiscal year 1947, there are a number of other programs which the President has recommended for authorization by the Congress. Most of these programs are embodied in legislation which is now under consideration in Congress; they include programs for housing, Federal public buildings, hospitals, airports, facilities for stream pollution control, educational structures, and recreational facilities. Except for Federal public building construction, Federal assistance under these programs would take the form of subsidies, grants, and loans to non-Federal agencies for construction. Should the Congress authorize these programs during 1946, additional appropriations will be required to begin operations. Primary emphasis would be given in the first year to planning the works to be undertaken rather than undertaking a large construction program. Accordingly, it is estimated that no more than an additional $100,000,000 would be expended during fiscal year 1947 on these programs should they be authorized before the start of the fiscal year. A brief description of each program follows.

Airports.—The proposed airport program will provide for construction of about 3,000 new airports and improvement of over half of the existing 3,000 civil airports, over a 10-year period, the cost to be shared equally by Federal and non-Federal public agencies. Under a bill now pending in the Congress, $700,000,000 of Federal funds would be authorized for grants for airport construction over a 10-year period, and $3,000,000 would be authorized for planning of the program. This program would be administered by the Civil Aeronautics Administration of the Department of Commerce.

Hospitals.—The proposed hospital construction program will provide for Federal grants to public and nonprofit agencies to aid in construction of hospitals and health centers, where the need is greatest. Legislation now pending in the Congress would provide $375,000,000 for construction grants over a 5-year period, and $5,000,000 for planning of the program. Administration of the program would be carried out by the United States Public Health Service of the Federal Security Agency.

Housing.—The proposed housing program envisages a broad and comprehensive approach to the problem of meeting the urgent housing needs of the Nation. It includes provisions for stimulating low-rent housing construction by both private and non-Federal public agencies, for speeding up of urban redevelopment in large cities, for further encouraging financing and construction of housing by private enterprise through reinforcing and broadening the loan insurance features of existing Federal housing programs, and for assisting in the improvement of rural housing. A comprehensive housing bill is now pending in Congress that is designed to carry out this program. For low-rent housing, this bill provides subsidy payments that would reach a level of $88,000,000 annually in 4 years, and would run for 45 years. For urban redevelopment, subsidies would reach a level of $20,000,000 annually in the fifth year, and loans up to a total of $500,000,000 would be available. For rural housing, annual subsidy payments are provided that would reach $25,000,000 per year in the fifth year. This program would be carried out by the National Housing Agency.

Pollution control.—This program provides Federal grants and loans for construction of facilities for the control of pollution in streams and water supplies. Legislation now pending in Congress would authorize an annual amount of $100,000,000 for construction grants or loans to State and local governments, and construction loans to private industrial enterprises. Grants would not exceed one-half of the project cost. This program would be carried out by the United States Public Health Service of the Federal Security Agency.

Educational facilities.—Under this program, Federal grants would be made to State and local public agencies for construction or improvement of educational facilities where the need is greatest. In legislation now before Congress, $1,500,000,000 would be authorized for such grants, on a matching basis, over a period ending June 30, 1952. In addition, $5,000,000 is authorized for surveys and $40,000,000 for the preparation of detailed plans and specifications. This program would be handled by the Office of Education of the Federal Security Agency.

Recreational facilities.—This program, which is now the subject of legislation before the Congress, would provide for Federal grants, on a matching basis, for development of systems of State Parks. Administration would be by the Secretary of the Interior, acting through the National Park Service.

Federal public buildings.—This program provides for the resumption of construction of Federal post offices, office buildings, marine hospitals, and other buildings where needed throughout the country and in the District of Columbia. A total of $193,000,000 would be required for construction of public buildings outside the District of Columbia, and $144,580,000 for public buildings in and near the District of Columbia. The total for buildings outside the District of Columbia represents only the initial stage of a larger program which aggregates $775,000,000. Legislation is now before the Congress to authorize the initial public buildings program, totaling $337,580,000. This work is under jurisdiction of the Public Buildings Administration of the Federal Works Agency.

*Includes only that part of the appropriation account used for public works planning or construction.

[1] The coverage of this table is broader than that of the "General public works program" in summary tables 1, 2, and 5, and appendix 9. It includes all items classified in the general public works category, exclusive of amounts for operation and maintenance. It includes, in addition, public works items under war activities and under other functional categories in general and special accounts, Federal loan programs for financial assistance to State and local public agencies for the planning or construction of public works, and capital additions of the Tennessee Valley Authority. In order to eliminate nonconstruction items such as maintenance and operation, it has been necessary in some cases to show figures below the appropriation unit level. Such items are designated in the table by an asterisk (*).

[2] Appropriation titles in italics are classified as "national defense."

[3] Detailed estimates of appropriation will be transmitted to the Congress in the spring of 1946 in a supplement to the Budget. Consequently the estimated appropriation and obligations for the fiscal year 1947 are tentative.

[4] Excluding $12,687,740 in fiscal year 1946 and $20,446,851 in fiscal year 1945 available for capital improvements by reappropriation of unobligated balances; figures reflect minor adjustments for budgeted depreciation and property transfers.

[5] Includes funds from appropriations and receipts.

THE WAR PROGRAM

Table A shows the status of the cumulative authorized war and national defense program as of three periods: At the beginning of the fiscal year 1946, when it was at a maximum; estimated as of June 30, 1946, after large rescissions recommended in the Budget Message; and estimated as of June 30, 1947. As of each period the authorizations, expenditures, and unexpended balances are given for both the activities in the general and special accounts and the Government corporations.

Total unobligated balances and unliquidated obligations	141.2	28.2	22.0

[1] Include deficiency and supplemental appropriations through Dec. 31, 1945. Exclude cumulative appropriations lapsed and other amounts carried to surplus aggregating 4 billion dollars as of June 30, 1945, and 5 billion dollars as of June 30, 1946, and June 30, 1947.

[2] Gross commitments less withdrawals and cancellations, and less receipts from rents, repayments, and sales.

Table B classifies war expenditures for the period July 1, 1940, to June 30, 1946, by objects of expenditure. These data are designed to serve the purpose of economic analysis and are estimates rather than precise accounting data. The total expenditures have been classified into three major categories: (1) munitions, (2) war construction, and (3) nonmunitions. "Munitions" include both military- and civilian-type equipment and operating supplies, produced and assembled in the continental United States, except for subsistence of the armed forces and agricultural products for export, procured from war appropriations. The munitions category, with the one major exception noted below, does not include the value of new construction put-in-place in the continental United States, although it does cover construction materials produced in the United States but shipped outside the United States, as well as equipment and supplies used for the maintenance and repairs of construction facilities. Construction of the Manhattan District project is included in the munitions category. Expenditures for services not embodied in end products themselves as well as the expenditures for production items or construction made outside the United States and transfer items (second-hand ships, etc.) are classified as nonmunitions. Included in the munitions category are expenditures for procurement of combat items such as guns, ammunition, aircraft, tanks, and ships; also for trucks, construction machinery, and engineer equipment, machinery and nonagricultural raw materials for export, clothing and equipage, petroleum, and similar operating supplies. "War construction and war plant" includes outlays from war appropriations for military installations, defense plant, war housing, etc., except for the Manhattan District project, which is included in munitions. The figures for construction, however, are on a value-in-place basis and do not make allowance for advances or for lags in payments. This category covers both the construction of war plants and the machinery and equipment for installation in them. "Nonmunitions" consist of two major subcategories: (a) Pay, subsistence, and travel of the armed forces (including mustering-out pay and the Government's share of dependency allowances), and (b) other expenditures for services and various miscellaneous objects including civilian pay of the war agencies (excluding arsenals and Navy yards), stock-piling of critical materials, procurement of agricultural products for export, contract termination payments, commercial transportation and public utilities, and other minor groups.

Table C shows war expenditures on a checks paid basis for the period July 1, 1940, to June 30, 1946, classified by agency making the expenditure. These figures for expenditures are not comparable with the appropriations recorded for the various agencies inasmuch as the expenditures of funds allocated from appropriations to the President, such as the defense aid appropriations, are recorded by the agency making the expenditure.

EXPLANATION OF THE ESTIMATES OF RECEIPTS UNDER EXISTING LEGISLATION

The Treasury prepares in December of each year estimates of the amount of Federal receipts expected in the current fiscal year and in the ensuing fiscal year on the basis of legislation existing at the time of making the estimates.

TOTAL RECEIPTS

Total receipts, general and special accounts, are estimated (on the daily Treasury statement basis) in the amounts of $39,706.6 millions in the fiscal year 1946 and $32,938.5 millions in the fiscal year 1947. Estimated total receipts in the fiscal year 1946 show a decrease of $8,032.9 millions from actual receipts of $47,739.5 millions in the fiscal year 1945 and estimated fiscal year 1947 receipts show a further decrease of $6,768.1 millions from receipts estimated for the fiscal year 1946.

The details of the estimated and actual receipts as prepared by the Treasury are shown in table 3, page A5. Throughout the tables shown in this exposition the figures are rounded and will not necessarily add to totals. The exposition utilizes the Budget classification of receipts. The footnotes to the table outline the differences between this classification and the Treasury classification of receipts.

Percentage distribution of total receipts by sources

Source [1]	Estimated		Actual
	1947	1946	1945	1944
Direct taxes on individuals	39.1	40.0	41.5	44.7
Direct taxes on corporations	24.9	31.2	34.3	33.6
Excise taxes [2]	19.3	15.8	12.4	9.7
Employment taxes [3]	5.6	4.0	3.8	3.9
Customs	1.3	1.0	.7	.9
Miscellaneous receipts	9.8	8.0	7.3	7.2
Total receipts	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0

[1] This classification removes from the Treasury classification of miscellaneous internal revenue the capital stock, estate, and gift taxes. The capital stock tax is included in "direct taxes on corporations" along with current and back taxes on corporation income and excess profits, and declared value excess profits taxes. The estate and gift taxes are placed in the "direct taxes on individuals" classification, together with current and back individual income taxes. The unjust enrichment tax is removed from the Treasury corporation "back tax" classification and included in "excise taxes." The entire adjustment of miscellaneous internal revenue from a collection to a daily Treasury statement basis is included in "excise taxes."

[2] Includes the unjust enrichment tax collection and all of miscellaneous internal revenue receipts except collections from the capital stock, estate, and gift taxes.

[3] Includes taxes collected under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act in addition to the taxes collected under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, the Federal Unemployment Tax Act, and the Carriers Taxing Act of 1937, which are called "employment taxes" under the Internal Revenue Code.

The direct taxes on individuals maintain their position as the leading source of revenue throughout the fiscal years 1946 and 1947, even though they represent successively smaller percentages of total receipts in each year. Direct taxes on corporations, the second most important source of receipts, follow a more rapidly declining trend both in amount and as a percentage of total receipts. Excise taxes and customs, although representing fairly stable absolute amounts, increase as percentages of total receipts as a result of the estimated decline in total receipts in the fiscal years 1946 and 1947. Employment taxes, although declining slightly in absolute amount in the fiscal year 1946, show an increase on a percentage basis, and in the fiscal year 1947 show an increase in both absolute amount and percentage. Miscellaneous receipts show a decline on an absolute basis but an increase on a percentage basis in the fiscal year 1946 and an increase on both bases in the fiscal year 1947.

FISCAL YEAR 1946

Estimated receipts in the fiscal year 1946 and actual receipts in the fiscal year 1945 are compared by major sources in the following table:

Total and net receipts by sources [1]

[In millions of dollars]

Source	Estimated, 1946	Actual, 1945	Increase (+) or decrease (−), 1946 over 1945
Direct taxes on individuals	15,844.8	19,788.9	−3,944.1
Direct taxes on corporations	12,393.6	16,399.0	−4,005.4
Excise taxes	6,302.5	5,934.6	+367.9
Employment taxes	1,581.3	1,792.7	−211.4
Customs	413.2	354.8	+58.4
Miscellaneous receipts	3,171.2	3,469.5	−298.3
Total receipts	39,706.6	47,739.5	−8,032.9
Deduct: Net appropriation to Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund	1,097.7	1,283.0	−185.2
Net receipts	38,608.8	46,456.6	−7,847.8

[1] See footnotes to preceding table.

In the fiscal year 1946, for the first time in 7 years, receipts of the Federal Government are expected to show a decline from the receipts of the previous fiscal year. The largest decreases occur in the receipts from the corporation income taxes, as a result of lower corporate profits, and in the receipts from the individual income taxes reflecting both lower levels of income and reductions in taxes contained in the Revenue Act of 1945. Employment tax receipts and miscellaneous receipts also contribute in a smaller measure to the decline in receipts in the fiscal year 1946. Employment tax receipts decline as a result of the estimated lower levels of salaries and wages, and miscellaneous receipts decrease as a result of smaller recoveries from the renegotiation of war contracts. Customs receipts show an increase resulting from the improved shipping situation, and receipts from excise taxes increase as a result of growing availability of taxable commodities following the surrender of Japan.

Direct taxes on individuals.—The yields of direct taxes on individuals are shown in the following table:

[In millions of dollars]

Source	Estimated, 1946	Actual, 1945	Increase (+) or decrease (−), 1946 over 1945
Individual income tax:
Withheld	8,061.0	10,289.2	−2,228.2
Not withheld	6,805.0	8,345.0	−1,540.0
Back taxes	314.0	511.6	−197.6
Total individual income tax	15,180.0	19,145.8	−3,965.8
Estate tax	608.0	596.1	+11.9
Gift tax	56.8	46.9	+9.9
Total direct taxes on individuals	15,844.8	19,788.9	−3,944.1

Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis

Estimated individual income tax receipts in the fiscal year 1946 are based on lower income levels than prevailed in the fiscal year 1945 and in addition reflect lower tax and withholding rates beginning January 1, 1946.

Direct taxes on corporations.—The details of the taxes from this source appear in the table below:

[In millions of dollars]

Source	Estimated, 1946	Actual, 1945	Increase (+) or decrease (−), 1946 over 1945
Income and excess profits taxes	10,629.8	14,533.6	−3,903.8
Declared value excess profits tax	73.8	117.9	−44.1
Back taxes (excluding unjust enrichment tax)	1,337.7	1,375.5	−37.8
Capital stock tax	352.3	372.0	−19.7
Total direct taxes on corporations	12,393.6	16,399.0	−4,005.4

Corporate profits are estimated to have reached their peak in the calendar year 1943 and to have declined successively in the calendar years 1944 and 1945. As a result, corporation tax receipts in the fiscal year 1946, reflecting 1944 and 1945 corporate incomes, are expected to be somewhat smaller than the fiscal year 1945 receipts which reflected 1943 and 1944 corporate profits.

Receipts in the fiscal year 1946 show a further decline as a result of the passage of the Tax Adjustment Act of 1945. Under this act numerous offsets to current payments are available to corporate taxpayers, which are expected to reduce receipts substantially. These offsets to current payments arise from the carry-backs of net operating losses and unused excess profits credits and the net postwar credit for excess profits taxes. Corporations are allowed to estimate their net operating losses and unused excess profits credits for the current year and to recompute their tax for prior years using the estimated carry-backs. The reduction of taxes as determined by the recomputation is allowed as an offset to current tax payments. Under the act the net postwar credit for excess profits taxes (the postwar credit for the excess profits tax less the amounts taken currently for debt retirement) is allowed to be taken currently, reducing current tax payments. An additional offset against current tax liabilities results from the termination of rapid amortization by the Presidential Proclamation of September 29, 1945. In most cases the effect of this action was to increase the yearly amortization, which had previously been allowed on a 60-month basis, and resulted in lower tax liabilities for years prior to 1945. The difference in original and recomputed taxes may be taken as a credit against the current tax payments.

Excise taxes.—Receipts from this source by major groups are listed in the following table:

[In millions of dollars]

Source	Estimated, 1946	Actual, 1945	Increase (+) or decrease (−), 1946 over 1945
Liquor taxes	2,372.7	2,309.8	+62.9
Tobacco taxes	1,139.9	932.1	+207.7
Stamp taxes	77.5	65.5	+12.0
Manufacturers' excise taxes	897.7	782.1	+115.6
Retailers' excise taxes	423.3	424.1	−.8
Miscellaneous taxes	1,391.3	1,430.9	−39.6
Unjust enrichment tax	.1	.2	−.1
Adjustment to daily Treasury statement basis		−10.2	+10.2
Total excise taxes	6,302.5	5,934.6	+367.9

It is estimated that yields from liquor and tobacco taxes will increase as a result of a more ample civilian supply in the case of the tobacco taxes and increased production in the case of liquor taxes. The increases would be greater were it not for the expected decline in consumer purchasing power in the fiscal year 1946. Receipts from stamp taxes on the issuance and transfer of securities are estimated to increase as a result of increased financial activity. Manufacturers' excise tax receipts are estimated to increase in the fiscal year 1946 as a result of a resumption of manufacture of many taxable items which had been discontinued during the war. Receipts from retailers' excise taxes and miscellaneous taxes show decreases as a result of the expected decline in levels of income in the fiscal year 1946 and the consequent reduction in consumer purchasing power.

Employment taxes.—The yields of the various employment taxes are shown below:

[In millions of dollars]

Source	Estimated, 1946	Actual, 1945	Increase (+) or decrease (−), 1946 over 1945
Federal Insurance Contributions Act	1,130.6	1,309.9	−179.3
Federal Unemployment Tax Act	174.6	184.5	−9.9
Taxes on carriers and their employees	264.1	285.0	−20.9
Railroad unemployment insurance contributions	12.0	13.2	−1.2
Total employment taxes	1,581.3	1,792.7	−211.4
Deduct: Net appropriation to Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund	1,097.7	1,283.0	−185.2
Net employment taxes	483.6	509.7	−26.2

Since the only change in tax rates was an increase in the rate upon carriers and their employees from 3¼ percent to 3½ percent on each, the decline in receipts for the fiscal year 1946 reflects the lower levels of salaries and wages upon which the estimated receipts are based.

Customs.—Customs receipts are estimated on the basis of improved trade conditions resulting from the surrender of Japan, and are expected to be $413.2 millions in the fiscal year 1946, an increase of $58.4 millions over receipts of $354.8 millions in the fiscal year 1945.

Miscellaneous receipts.—Miscellaneous receipts are estimated at $3,171.2 millions for the fiscal year 1946, a decrease of $298.3 millions from the fiscal year 1945 receipts of $3,469.5 millions. The decrease results from smaller recoveries from the renegotiation of war contracts as a result of the termination of renegotiation as of December 31, 1945. The remainder of miscellaneous receipts shows an increase.

FISCAL YEAR 1947

Estimated receipts in the fiscal years 1946 and 1947 are compared by major sources in the following table:

Total and net receipts by source [1]

[In millions of dollars]

Source	Estimated, 1947	Estimated, 1946	Increase (+) or decrease (−), 1947 over 1946
Direct taxes on individuals	12,874.2	15,844.8	−2,970.6
Direct taxes on corporations	8,191.6	12,393.6	−4,202.0
Excise taxes	6,343.9	6,302.5	+41.4
Employment taxes	1,856.5	1,581.3	+275.2
Customs	433.7	413.2	+20.5
Miscellaneous receipts	3,238.6	3,171.2	+67.4
Total receipts	32,938.5	39,706.6	−6,768.1
Deduct: Net appropriation to Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund	1,425.8	1,097.7	+328.1

Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis

Receipts in the fiscal year 1947 are expected to show a decrease of $7,096.1 millions from the fiscal year 1946. Large decreases are shown in receipts from direct taxes on both individuals and corporations. These decreases result from the estimated lower levels of income in the fiscal year 1947 and from the passage of the Revenue Act of 1945 which reduced both corporate and individual tax liabilities. The other major sources of revenue show increases in receipts in the fiscal year 1947 as compared with the fiscal year 1946. The increases are a consequence of the expected increase in supplies of taxable commodities and services except in the case of the employment taxes, which reflect the scheduled rate increase in the calendar year 1947.

Direct taxes on individuals.—The yields of the direct taxes on individuals are shown in the following table:

[In millions of dollars]

Source	Estimated, 1947	Estimated, 1946	Increase (+) or decrease (−), 1947 over 1946
Individual income tax:
Withheld	5,710.0	8,061.0	−2,351.0
Not withheld	6,178.0	6,805.0	−627.0
Back taxes	300.0	314.0	−14.0
Total individual income tax	12,188.0	15,180.0	−2,992.0
Estate tax	628.0	608.0	+20.0
Gift tax	58.2	56.8	+1.4
Total direct taxes on individuals	12,874.2	15,844.8	−2,970.6

Estimated receipts from the individual income tax in the fiscal year 1947 reflect the lower level of income forecast for the calendar year 1946 as compared with the calendar year 1945 and the lower tax rates under the Revenue Act of 1945. This act reduced normal and surtax rates, increased exemptions for the normal tax, and reduced withholding rates, effective with respect to the calendar year 1946 incomes. Roughly 95 percent of the receipts in the fiscal year 1947 reflect tax liabilities incurred under the provisions of the Revenue Act of 1945 as compared with only about 25 percent of the receipts in the fiscal year 1946.

Direct taxes on corporations.—The details of the receipts from direct taxes on corporations appear in the table below:

[In millions of dollars]

Source	Estimated, 1947	Estimated, 1946	Increase (+) or decrease (−), 1947 over 1946
Income and excess profits taxes	7,169.2	10,629.8	−3,460.6
Declared value excess profits tax	39.3	73.8	−34.5
Back taxes (excluding unjust enrichment tax)	983.0	1,337.7	−354.7
Capital stock tax	.1	352.3	−352.2
Total direct taxes on corporations	8,191.6	12,393.6	−4,202.0

Corporate tax receipts expected in the fiscal year 1947 reflect the lower combined incomes of the calendar years 1945 and 1946 as compared with the incomes of the calendar years 1944 and 1945, which are reflected in the fiscal year 1946 receipts. In addition the 1947 receipts reflect for one-half year the changes instituted by the Revenue Act of 1945. The Revenue Act of 1945 repealed the excess profits tax and reduced the surtax rates for the calendar year 1946. Calendar year 1946 profits are expected to be lower than the calendar year 1945 profits as a result of the lower levels of income in the calendar year 1946.

Excise taxes.—Receipts from the major groups of excise taxes are listed in the following table:

[In millions of dollars]

Source	Estimated, 1947	Estimated, 1946	Increase (+) or decrease (−), 1947 over 1946
Liquor taxes	2,420.9	2,372.7	+48.2
Tobacco taxes	1,122.5	1,139.9	−17.4
Stamp taxes	85.7	77.5	+8.2
Manufacturers' excise taxes	1,171.2	897.7	+273.5
Retailers' excise taxes	362.5	423.3	−60.8
Miscellaneous taxes	1,181.0	1,391.3	−210.3
Unjust enrichment tax	(1)	.1	−.1
Total excise taxes	6,343.9	6,302.5	+41.4

[1] Less than $50,000.

Liquor tax receipts are estimated to increase slightly in the fiscal year 1947 as a result of growing availability of supply. The increase is offset, in part, by the reduction in consumer purchasing power in the fiscal year 1947. This factor is also responsible for the decrease in estimated receipts from tobacco taxes and retailers' excise taxes. The repeal of the automobile use tax effective July 1, 1946, and the decreased purchasing power together account for the estimated decline in receipts from miscellaneous taxes. Manufacturers' excise tax receipts are expected to show an increase in the fiscal year 1947, in spite of the anticipated lowering of consumer incomes, as a result of the return to peacetime manufacture of taxable items. Receipts from stamp taxes on issuance and transfer of securities are estimated to increase as a result of increased activity in the financial and security markets.

Employment taxes.—The yields of the various employment taxes are shown below:

[In millions of dollars]

Source	Estimated, 1947	Estimated, 1946	Increase (+) or decrease (−), 1947 over 1946
Federal Insurance Contributions Act	1,464.0	1,130.6	+333.4
Federal Unemployment Tax Act	148.9	174.6	−25.7
Taxes on carriers and their employees	233.6	264.1	−30.5
Railroad unemployment insurance contributions	10.0	12.0	−2.0
Total employment taxes	1,856.5	1,581.3	+275.2
Deduct: Net appropriation to Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund	1,425.8	1,097.7	+328.1
Net employment taxes	430.7	483.6	−52.9

Despite the expected decline in levels of salaries and wages, total receipts from employment taxes are estimated to increase in the fiscal year 1947 as compared with the fiscal year 1946 because of the rate increase from 1 percent to 2½ percent on both employer and employee scheduled under the Federal Insurance Contributions Act for the calendar year 1947. If the rate is not allowed to increase, it is estimated that the fiscal year 1947 receipts will be $418.5 millions less than shown in the table.

Customs.—Customs receipts are expected to be $433.7 millions in the fiscal year 1947. The increase of $20.5 millions over the estimated receipts of $413.2 millions in the fiscal year 1946 reflects more normal trade relationships, offset by a considerable decrease in imports of wool.

Miscellaneous receipts.—Miscellaneous receipts are estimated at $3,238.6 millions in the fiscal year 1947, an increase of $67.4 millions over the fiscal year 1946 receipts of $3,171.2 millions. The increase is the result of an estimated rise in receipts from the sale of surplus property, offset to some extent by smaller recoveries from the renegotiation of war contracts.

APPENDIX 1

EXPLANATION OF THE BUDGET CONTENTS

The basic authority for the Budget document is the Budget and Accounting Act of 1921 which provides for a national budget system. Under that act, the President must transmit an annual Budget to the Congress on the first day of each regular session. This Budget begins with the Budget Message of the President which indicates the broad policies underlying its formulation and describes the major Budget programs. The message is followed by a series of four charts, which show the trends of receipts, expenditures, and debt over a decade, and by a Budget résumé, which brings together on a single page various receipt, expenditure, appropriation, and debt totals for the fiscal years 1945, 1946, and 1947; they are based on existing and proposed new authorizing legislation. For data supporting the charts see appendix 8 and the description thereof in the closing paragraph of this appendix. The remainder of the Budget is divided into three major parts and several appendixes; a discussion and explanation of the contents of each follows.

PART I. SUMMARY AND SUPPORTING TABLES

Part I consists of two over-all summary tables and nine supporting tables of actual and estimated receipts and expenditures and of actual and recommended appropriations and other authorizations. The estimates and recommendations in the detailed supporting tables include only those for which basic authorizing legislation already exists. The summary tables, however, also include tentative lump-sum amounts based on the new authorizing legislation recommended in the Budget Message. Detailed estimates and recommendations for the programs for which new authorizing legislation is proposed will be transmitted to the Congress after the enactment of such legislation.

The summary and supporting tables include tentative lump-sum estimates for most of the major war agencies and for the activities of liquidated emergency war agencies which have been transferred to old-line agencies. Detailed recommendations for these war agencies will be submitted to the Congress in the spring as in the past 3 years.

Tentative lump-sum estimates of anticipated supplemental appropriations and the related expenditures appear in the summary tables; detailed recommendations will be submitted later.

The summary and supporting tables also include tentative lump-sum estimates for the activities of the wholly owned Government corporations. "Business type" budgets for these corporations as required by the Government Corporation Control Act, Public Law 248, approved December 6, 1945, will be transmitted to the Congress in the spring of 1946.

TABLE 1. BUDGET SUMMARY OF RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES

Table 1 summarizes the Budget program as reflected by cash receipts and expenditures. This table shows the estimates of receipts and expenditures for the fiscal years 1946 and 1947 and actual receipts and expenditures for fiscal year 1945. All estimates are reviewed by the Bureau of the Budget. Budget classifications of actual receipts and expenditures are in large measure based on Treasury tabulations, but differ in some respects for purposes of summary and economic analyses.

Table 1 is arranged in the following four sections: (1) General and special accounts, (2) checking accounts of Government corporations and credit agencies with the Treasurer of the United States, (3) trust accounts, and (4) effect of operations on the public debt. A discussion of each of these sections follows.

GENERAL AND SPECIAL ACCOUNTS

The general accounts of the Government cover receipts not designated by Congress for specific purposes. Most appropriations and expenditures are made from such funds. Special accounts, commonly called special funds, are credited with receipts earmarked by Congress for specified purposes. The special accounts are identified in tables 3 and 5 and in part II of the Budget document.

Receipts.—Receipts and expenditures from general and special accounts are shown in the first section of table 1. Repayments to appropriation accounts are treated as credits to expenditures in this and other supporting tables rather than as receipts. The receipts from taxes for fiscal years 1946 and 1947 are estimated by the Treasury Department; a discussion of these estimates by the Treasury Department is presented in part III. Miscellaneous receipts for these years are estimated by the various collecting agencies. Actual receipts for fiscal year 1945 are those which have been deposited with the Treasurer of the United States. Detailed information on receipts by source is presented in table 3.

Attention is called to the refundable portion of the excess-profits taxes included under "direct taxes on corporations." Estimates of these refundable taxes are shown in a footnote to table 1. The collections of refundable taxes are shown as receipts, whereas excess-profits tax refund bonds are reported as general and special account expenditures (under "refunds") and as public debt receipts at the time the bonds are issued.

Expenditures.—Estimates of expenditures for fiscal years 1946 and 1947 are prepared by the various departments and agencies, and reviewed by the Bureau of the Budget. Actual expenditures for fiscal year 1945 represent checks which have been paid by the Treasurer of the United States less repayments credited to appropriation accounts. Greater detail on expenditures is presented by function and organization unit in table 4 and by organization unit and appropriation title in table 5.

The four following categories of the functional expenditure classification used in table 1 are discussed below: Refunds, interest on the public debt, international finance, and statutory public debt retirement. The first of these items includes refunds of customs and internal revenue and excess-profits tax refund bonds issued. The refund bonds are reported as expenditures of general and special accounts at the time they are issued, although such action does not involve a cash payment to the public.

Interest on the public debt includes accrued discount on savings bonds, discount on Treasury bills, and interest credited to trust and other investment accounts.

International finance includes subscriptions to the International Monetary Fund, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, and the Export-Import Bank, and expenditures against the proposed line of credit to the United Kingdom. The portion of the United States subscription to the International Monetary Fund financed from the Exchange Stabilization Fund established under the Gold Reserve Act of 1934 is excluded from this table.

Statutory public debt retirement is made from either the cumulative sinking fund or, under special provisions of law, from specified receipts. The cumulative sinking fund was established by the Victory Liberty Loan Act for the purpose of providing a regular and systematic means of retiring debt. In recent years, because of deficit financing, little use has been made of the sinking fund for this purpose. As of December 31, 1945, the sinking fund had unused appropriations of approximately 5.5 billion dollars.

There is generally a difference—sometimes a great difference—between the amounts of appropriations and of expenditures for a given purpose for any one fiscal year. Appropriations for a given year are based upon the estimated amount of obligations to be incurred in that year, some of which will be liquidated during subsequent years, whereas expenditures indicate the amount of cash actually disbursed during the fiscal period. There is generally some time lag between the enactment of an appropriation, the incurring of obligations thereunder, and the subsequent expenditures.

CHECKING ACCOUNTS OF GOVERNMENT CORPORATIONS AND CREDIT AGENCIES WITH THE TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES

The financial transactions of Government corporations and credit agencies are quite different in character and significance from those of the regular Government agencies and affect the Budget and the Treasury in a different manner from the ordinary receipts and expenditures of the Government.

Initial financial requirements of these agencies are frequently financed in part from appropriations from the general fund of the Treasury. Initial and subsequent subscriptions to their paid-in capital are usually purchased by the Secretary of the Treasury or by another official of the Government on behalf of the United States from appropriated funds, or by another corporation from its own funds. The United States thereby acquires a direct or indirect proprietary interest in the corporations and credit agencies. Annual appropriations from general and special accounts are made to a few of these agencies for the payment of their operating expenses or for making loans or grants. Appropriated funds which are expended in making loans are returned, in whole or in part, to the Treasury when the loans are collected or the agencies are liquidated.

Several of the corporations and credit agencies have been granted limited statutory authority to obtain funds for general or specific purposes by issuing bonds and debentures guaranteed by the United States. The maximum borrowing power of each of these agencies and the amounts of their outstanding obligations are shown in appendix 4.

The Government corporations and credit agencies finance a substantial portion of their cash requirements from collections of interest on loans and investments, revenues from the sale of their products and services, repayments on loans, and receipts from the sale of collateral security acquired by foreclosure. These receipts finance the normal operations of most of the agencies; additional funds are obtained by borrowing or from capital subscriptions to finance expanding activities of the agencies. On the other hand, a reduction in the amount of loans, investments, or properties owned by these agencies provides surplus funds which are then available for the retirement of outstanding bonds and debentures or of capital and surplus. During the fiscal year 1941 several of the corporations returned a portion of their capital and surplus funds to the Treasury pursuant to the act approved June 25, 1940. In some cases, these repayments are held in revolving funds available for resubscription.

Net expenditures of Government corporations and credit agencies from checking accounts maintained with the Treasurer of the United States as banker or fiscal agent are shown in the second section of table 1. Deposits with the Treasurer of the United States are available for expenditure without the necessity for appropriations except that appropriation acts have placed congressional limitations on certain loans and expenses of Government corporations and credit agencies.

This table reports only net expenditures or the difference between gross receipts and expenditures for each fiscal year. These expenditures are segregated between those which relate to (1) national defense, (2) international finance, (3) redemption of obligations in the market (net), and (4) other activities; these three categories are discussed below.

The item "national defense," heretofore labeled "war activities," includes the operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation formerly handled through the Defense Plant Corporation, Defense Supplies Corporation, Metals Reserve Company, and Rubber Reserve Company, operations of the War Damage Corporation, allocations of funds by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the United States Commercial Company, Rubber Development Corporation, Petroleum Reserve Corporation, and Defense Homes Corporation, and other expenditures for national defense purposes.

"International finance" reflects the net expenditures of the Export-Import Bank, and expenditures arising from the Bretton Woods Agreements and from the proposed line of credit to the United Kingdom. These expenditures are designed to assist in the restoration of economies disrupted by war and to promote the foreign trade of the United States.

"Redemption of obligations in the market (net)" represents the net expenditures for the retirement of outstanding bonds, debentures, and notes of the Government corporations and credit agencies held by the public, including those retired with funds borrowed from the Treasury.

The item "other activities" covers the net expenditures from checking accounts with the Treasurer of the United States for the remaining activities of the Government corporations and credit agencies, including the net expenditures of several small special deposit and miscellaneous checking accounts.

Greater detail supporting the net expenditure totals is presented in table 9. This Budget document does not include the statements of cash receipts and expenditures which have constituted part III of past Budget documents. These statements will be replaced by "business type" budgets in accordance with the provisions of the Government Corporation Control Act. These budgets covering the entire operations of the wholly owned Government corporations will be submitted to Congress during the spring of 1946.

TRUST ACCOUNTS

The third major section of table 1 summarizes the information on receipts and expenditures of trust accounts which is presented in tables 10 and 11, respectively. In general, trust account receipts relate to moneys received by the Government for the special benefit of individuals or classes of individuals. Such moneys are held in trust for beneficiaries, and hence are not available for general expenditure. Trust receipts include transfers from general and special accounts. Trust funds which are not needed to pay benefit payments and other expenses are, for the most part, invested in securities of the United States. Purchases of securities are presented on a net basis, i. e., expenditures for the purchase of securities less the proceeds from the sale or redemption of securities.

EFFECT OF OPERATIONS ON THE PUBLIC DEBT

The concluding section of table 1 summarizes the effect on the public debt of operations under all three sets of accounts discussed above. The public debt excludes the comparatively small guaranteed debt of Government corporations and credit agencies. An analysis of the public debt by type of issue outstanding as of June 30, 1944 and 1945, is shown in appendix 3.

Any excess of expenditures over receipts is financed by the Treasury through the sale of Government securities to the public, to trust accounts, and to Government corporations and credit agencies. The sale less the redemption of Government securities represents the increase in the public debt.

TABLE 2. BUDGET SUMMARY OF APPROPRIATIONS AND OTHER AUTHORIZATIONS

Table 2 summarizes the Budget program as reflected by appropriations and other authorizations recommended by the President for fiscal year 1947 and the amounts enacted by Congress for fiscal years 1945 and 1946. Rescissions enacted by Congress and recommendations for additional rescissions of appropriations and contract authorizations, including those in H. R. 4407, which was vetoed by the President, are also shown.

Appropriations authorize employment of personnel, purchase of supplies and equipment, the awarding of contracts, and the withdrawal of funds from the Treasury for these and other specified purposes. They are of two general types: Annual and permanent. An annual appropriation is one which is acted upon each year by Congress. A permanent appropriation is automatically renewed each year, pursuant to prior legislative enactment, without annual action by Congress.

Appropriations may be either definite or indefinite in amount. A definite appropriation is one the amount of which is stated in the appropriation act as a specific sum of money. An indefinite appropriation is one the amount of which is not stated in the appropriation act as a specific sum of money, but is determinable at some future date; e. g., an appropriation of receipts from a certain source or an appropriation based on certain financial requirements such as the interest on the public debt. Most special account and trust account appropriations are in the "permanent-indefinite" category.

Appropriations may be available for obligation for a definite or indefinite period of time. Most appropriations are only available for obligation during a single fiscal year, but some appropriations are available for obligation for a longer period of years. Appropriations for construction are generally available for incurring obligations for an indefinite period of time until the project covered by the appropriation is completed or terminated. Table 2 includes all of these types of appropriations.

GENERAL AND SPECIAL ACCOUNTS

Appropriations.—Appropriations from the general and special accounts under existing legislation and also proposed legislation are shown in the first section of table 2. "Indefinite" appropriations for fiscal year 1946 are estimated, since the amounts involved cannot be definitely determined until after the close of the fiscal year on June 30, 1946. Greater detail on general and special account appropriations is presented by function and organization unit in table 4 and by organization unit and appropriation title in table 5.

Reappropriations.—Reappropriations of the unobligated balances of general and special account appropriations are shown in this section. They continue the availability of unused balances of appropriations which otherwise would expire. Prior to the war, reappropriations were relatively small in amount. Large reappropriations in recent years are principally for the War Department and the defense aid (lend-lease) program. Detailed information on reappropriations is presented in table 6 by organization unit and appropriation title.

Contract authorizations.—A contract authorization is a statutory authorization by Congress—generally in an appropriation act—empowering the designated agency to enter into contracts and incur obligations for a stated purpose prior to enactment of an appropriation. A contract authorization, however, does not authorize the payment of the bills arising from the obligations incurred. In order to pay these bills, an appropriation to liquidate the contract authorizations must first be enacted by Congress. Such appropriations to liquidate contract authorizations are included under general and special account appropriations.

The contract authorizations for the naval expansion program are based on tonnage and are indefinite in amount. The financial significance of the indefinite contract authorizations included in this section must therefore be estimated. As the program progresses and unit costs change, the estimates are revised accordingly.

The new contract authorizations and appropriations to liquidate prior contract authorizations for fiscal year 1947 include tentative estimates for some of the war agencies. More detail on contract authorizations and on appropriations to liquidate contract authorizations is presented in table 7.

Authorizations treated as public debt transactions.—The Congress has authorized the Treasury to provide the new funds for the International Monetary Fund, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the Export-Import Bank by the issuance of Government securities. The portion of the United States subscription to the International Monetary Fund financed from the Exchange Stabilization Fund established under the Gold Reserve Act of 1934 is excluded from this table. This section also includes the proposed line of credit to be extended to the United Kingdom.

Rescissions of appropriations and contract authorizations.—The Congress has directed the President through the Bureau of the Budget to maintain a continuous study of appropriations and contract authorizations made for national defense and war purposes and to recommend the rescission of such funds no longer required for the purposes for which they were granted. This section of table 2 shows the rescissions included in H. R. 4407 as enacted by the Congress, but vetoed by the President, which have been placed in a nonexpendable reserve. It also includes recommendations for additional rescissions of appropriations and contract authorizations.

POSTAL ACCOUNTS

Appropriations.—Appropriations of postal accounts, shown in the second section of table 2, cover all postal operations. These operations are financed from postal revenues, supplemented, when necessary, by appropriations from general and special accounts. The expenditures shown in table 1 include only those made from general and special account appropriations. Detailed information on appropriations for postal operations is presented in part II.

TRUST ACCOUNTS

Appropriations.—Trust account appropriations, summarized in the third section of table 2, are mostly permanent indefinite appropriations of designated receipts. The amounts shown for these indefinite appropriations for fiscal years 1946 and 1947 are the same as the estimated receipts. The slight variations between the actual appropriations and receipts shown for fiscal year 1945 are principally due to the time lag between the deposit of the receipts with the Treasurer of the United States and the issuance of appropriation warrants. Detailed information on trust account appropriations is presented in table 11.

TABLES 3–11

Tables 3 to 11, inclusive, present information in support of tables 1 and 2. Table 3 itemizes general and special account receipts by source. Table 4 presents supporting detail for the general and special account appropriations and expenditures classified by function and itemized by bureau or other organization unit. Table 5 presents supporting detail for the general and special account appropriations and expenditures, classified by organization unit and itemized by appropriation title. The items appear in the same sequence as the detailed estimates of general and special account appropriations in part II. The public works projects which heretofore have been shown in a separate section of table 5 entitled "General Public Works Program" are distributed in this Budget among the respective departments and agencies.

Table 6 shows the supporting detail for the reappropriations of unobligated balances of general and special accounts, classified by organization unit and appropriation title. Table 7 itemizes contract authorizations and appropriations to liquidate contract authorizations. Table 8 presents supporting detail for the rescissions of appropriations and contract authorizations.

Table 9 itemizes the net expenditures of Government corporations and credit agencies from checking accounts with the Treasurer of the United States. Table 10 itemizes trust account receipts by source. Table 11 itemizes appropriations and expenditures of trust accounts; the items are grouped in this table according to the classification of trust account expenditures in tables 1 and 2.

PART II. DETAILED ESTIMATES OF APPROPRIATION AND OTHER AUTHORIZATIONS

Part II is by far the longest section of the Budget document. It contains the recommendations of the President with respect to the appropriation language and the appropriations to provide for Federal activities during the fiscal year 1947, and the detailed schedules in support of those recommendations. Part II does not include any appropriation language or supporting schedules for the preliminary lump-sum estimates included for (1) most of the major war agencies and the activities of liquidated war agencies which have been transferred to old-line agencies; (2) the programs for which new authorizing legislation is required; (3) the Government corporations subject to the provisions of the Government Corporation Control Act; and (4) anticipated supplemental appropriations; detailed estimates will be submitted to the Congress later.

Presidential recommendations most frequently take the form of suggested appropriations, but occasionally reappropriations, contract authorizations and authorizations treated as public debt transactions are proposed. As discussed previously, appropriations authorize employment of personnel, the purchase of supplies and equipment, the awarding of contracts, and the withdrawal of funds from the Treasury for these and other specified purposes and are usually available for obligation for only 1 fiscal year. Reappropriations, however, continue the availability of balances of appropriations which otherwise would expire. Contract authorizations provide for the letting of contracts and the incurring of obligations, but do not authorize the payment of bills arising from the obligations incurred. In order to pay these bills, appropriations to liquidate the contract authorizations must be enacted by Congress.

These Presidential recommendations are arranged in chapters in the order of departments or major agencies shown on the face sheet at the beginning of part II. Independent offices are grouped with the Executive Office of the President. The public works projects which heretofore have been shown in the chapter headed "General Public Works Program" are distributed in this Budget among the respective departments and agencies.

Each chapter begins with a summary table which compares the estimates for fiscal year 1947 for all major units of the department or agency with the actual appropriations or other authorizations for fiscal year 1946 up to the time of submission of this Budget. The table is followed by an "Explanatory statement" describing functions and programs. The extended remaining portion of each chapter is headed "Estimates of Appropriation" and consists of the proposed appropriation language and the detailed schedules of obligations for each appropriation title. An example of proposed appropriation language appears below:

Salaries and Expenses, ———— Commission—

Salaries and expenses: For [every expenditure requisite for and incident to] all expenses necessary for work of the ———— Commission, including not to exceed [$109,000] $105,000 for travel expenses; purchase (not to exceed two), maintenance, and operation of passenger automobiles; law books, books of reference, and periodicals; newspapers: not to exceed $2,000 for deposit in the general fund of the Treasury for cost of penalty mail as required by section 2 of the Act of June 28, 1944 (Public Law 364); and not t exceed [$1,012,000] $992,000 for personal services in the Distric of Columbia; [$1,200,000] $1,236,000. (*16 U. 15 U. S. C. 717; Act of May 3, 1945, Public Law 49; Act of Dec. 28, 1945, Public Law 269.)

Estimate 1947, $1,236,000 Appropriated 1946, [a] $1,230,000

[a] Includes $30,000 appropriated in the First Deficiency Appropriation Act, 1946.

The bold-face side heading above is the official title which identifies the appropriation. The subsequent legal phraseology indicates the nature and scope of the activities to which the expenditures of the indicated amount must be restricted. Bracketed material indicates those words and figures in the previous 1946 act which it is proposed be omitted from the 1947 act; similarly, italicized words show proposed additions. Italicized symbols, words, and figures in parentheses at the end of the appropriation language give citations to relevant laws and to the 1946 annual or deficiency appropriation act if it contained funds for the same purpose.

Below the last line of appropriation language the dollar amounts indicate at the left the recommended estimate for fiscal year 1947 and at the right the appropriation for fiscal year 1946. The amount shown for fiscal year 1946 includes any supplemental appropriations up to the date of this Budget, as indicated by the footnote to the illustration. Footnotes are also used if a function has been transferred or is proposed to be transferred to or from another appropriation. When appropriations are based on the receipts of special accounts and trust accounts the figure shown for appropriations for fiscal year 1946 must be estimated. In connection with some special and trust accounts the entry "Appropriated, 1946, $————" is accompanied immediately below by the entry "Revised, 1946, $————"; the latter figure indicates the revision from the estimate published a year ago.

The appropriation language is followed by a comparative schedule of obligations showing actual obligations for the fiscal year 1945 and estimated obligations for the fiscal years 1946 and 1947. The obligations are for financial liabilities incurred for orders placed, contracts awarded, services rendered, and the like, and in certain cases the amounts shown include expenditures which have not been preceded by obligations.

The following discussion of the schedule of obligations first covers the initial major section, which breaks down the obligations by objects, and then the usual second major section, which breaks down the obligations by projects or functions. An example of the initial major break-down by objects is given below:

The initial major section of the obligations schedule, arranged by object of expenditure, utilizes symbol numbers for ready reference, e. g., 01 Personal services, 02 Travel, and 03 Transportation of things, etc. Only those objects of expenditure which are relevant to a given schedule are printed.

It will be noted that of the various objects of expenditure the greatest detail is shown for 01 Personal services. The primary division here is between the departmental employees serving at the headquarters or central office and those in the field service at other offices which may be scattered throughout the country.

Within the departmental and field service categories, subcategories indicate the types of service of the permanent positions established by the Civil Service Commission. These types include the clerical, administrative, and fiscal service; professional service; subprofessional service; crafts, protective, and custodial service; Executive order grades; grades established by special acts; and unclassified. The grades within each type of service are arranged in descending order of salary ranges; operating titles are listed separately if the basic salary is above $3,640, and by groups if below that amount. On each line dual columnar entries at the right indicate the man-years of employment and the total salary for each of the 3 fiscal years.

Following the total line for both departmental and permanent field personnel, one-line entries cover special categories such as temporary, part-time, and $1-a-year employment. Deductions are then made for the value of quarters, subsistence, etc., thus adjusting the salaries of those employees at Federal institutions, e. g., who must pay for the accommodations they are furnished.

The total line for 01 Personal services (net) is followed by one-line entries for (a) other obligations, such as 02 Travel and 03 Transportation of things, and (b) adjustments for reimbursements, transfers, and the like indicated in the following example from a typical schedule. The final line shows the total estimate or appropriation for fiscal years 1946 and 1947 which agrees with the bold-face figures at the end of the appropriation language.

Estimated savings, unobligated balance			4,441
Total estimate or appropriation	1,236,000	1,230,000	1,100,000

The preceding discussion covers the break-down by objects in each schedule of obligations. In a considerable number of cases this is followed by another break-down by activities, projects, or functions. An example of this second major portion of obligation schedules is given below:

By projects or functions	Obligations
	Estimate, 1947	Estimate, 1946	Actual, 1945
1. Administration	$186,100	$202,200	$160,697

PART III. SPECIAL ANALYSES AND TABLES

Part III is a new feature of this Budget document. It brings together special analyses and tables on the following subjects: (1) The Government's Budget and the Nation's Budget, (2) summary of payments to and receipts from the public, (3) Federal activities in public works, (4) the war program, and (5) explanation of the estimates of receipts under existing legislation. The section on Federal activities in public works is new; the data for the other sections have been shown in the Budget Message and in summary and appendix tables in past Budget documents. An explanation of the special analyses and tables contained in part III follow.

THE GOVERNMENT'S BUDGET AND THE NATION'S BUDGET

The table on the Government's Budget and the Nation's Budget shows the income and expenditure picture for the economy of the United States as a whole. The second text table in the Budget Message gives figures for calendar year 1944 and an estimate for the fourth quarter of calendar year 1945 on an annual rate, thus contrasting the all-out war economy with the demobilization economy. The first section of part III of the Budget document shows a detailed presentation of the Government's Budget and the Nation's budget for calendar years 1944 and 1945 and for the fourth quarter of calendar year 1945 on an annual rate.

The Nation's Budget shows receipts and expenditures of the Nation as a whole—a broader concept than the Government's Budget which shows receipts and expenditures of the Federal Government. In the Nation's Budget receipts and expenditures are classified in terms of consumers, businesses, State and local governments, and the Federal Government. Receipts and expenditures of the Federal Government correspond with the concepts used in the summary of payments to and receipts from the public, which is explained below. Intragovernmental and noncash transactions are excluded from Government receipts and payments.

The table illustrates the essential balance of all national accounts. Total receipts and total expenditures must be equal by definition since every expenditure by one group must be received by another group and every receipt represents an expenditure by someone else.

The figures are based on the national income concepts used by the Department of Commerce. Gross national product as defined by the Department of Commerce is a comprehensive measure of the output of the economic system. It measures the value of currently produced goods and services. The Commerce Department concept of gross national product and its components are explained in the Survey of Current Business, March 1943. The data have been modified so that the Government figures correspond with the concepts used in the Budget table of payments to and receipts from the public which appears in the following section of part III.

SUMMARY OF PAYMENTS TO AND RECEIPTS FROM THE PUBLIC

This section of part III summarizes the Budget program as reflected by payments to and receipts from the public, indicating the actual flow of money between the Federal Government and the "public," which includes individuals, private corporations, and State, local, and foreign governments. It presents a picture of the financial operations for the Federal Government as a unit, subordinating differences between types of "accounts" or funds, and eliminating intragovernmental and noncash transactions. These transactions affect both receipts and expenditures in the same amount, and are thus neutral in respect to cash balance or debt changes.

Payments to the public are shown in this table under the accounts from which the disbursements to the public are made. Receipts from the public are shown under the account to which the collections from the public are deposited except in two cases: (1) The net appropriations from general and special account receipts to the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund are treated as trust account receipts and therefore are excluded from "employment taxes" and included under trust account receipts, and (2) the refundable portion of the excess-profits taxes are treated as borrowings rather than tax receipts and are therefore excluded from "direct taxes on corporations" and included under "borrowing from the public."

Since Government corporations are treated in this table as an integral part of the Federal Government, their sales of obligations on the market are combined with other Federal borrowing to arrive at "borrowing from the public (net)." When redemptions of these obligations exceed sales, borrowing from the public is reduced.

The amounts shown in this table are derived from table 1 by eliminating transactions which take place within the Federal Government and noncash transactions with the public in which the flow of money is not involved. Redemptions of adjusted service bonds have been added to "other activities—trust accounts" and cash payments to the International Monetary Fund from the Exchange Stabilization Fund have been added to "international finance." Offsetting adjustments of expenditures and the corresponding receipts have been made in order to eliminate intragovernmental and noncash transactions. An explanation of these adjustments follow.

TRANSFERS FROM GENERAL AND SPECIAL ACCOUNTS TO TRUST ACCOUNTS AND GOVERNMENT CORPORATIONS

Transfers to the national service life insurance fund and the adjusted service certificate fund are excluded from "veterans pensions and benefits" and transfers to Federal employees retirement funds and other trust funds are excluded from payments for "other activities—general and special accounts." Offsetting adjustments are made to the appropriate trust receipts. The restoration of capital impairment of the Commodity Credit Corporation, and subscriptions to the capital stock of Government corporations are also excluded from payments for "other activities—general and special accounts." Repayments of capital stock are excluded from miscellaneous receipts or from other activities. Offsetting adjustments are made to the appropriate Government corporation receipts or expenditures.

INVESTMENTS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES

Investments of trust accounts and Government corporations in Government securities are excluded from payments for "other activities" and corresponding amounts are excluded from "borrowing from the public (net)" on the receipt side.

INTEREST ON INVESTMENTS IN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES

Interest paid on trust account and Government corporation investments in Government securities has been eliminated from "interest on the public debt." Like amounts have been excluded from the receipts of trust accounts and Government corporations.

ACCRUED DISCOUNT ON SAVINGS BONDS AND TREASURY BILLS

The accrued discount on United States savings bonds (less accrued discount on savings bonds redeemed) and the discount on Treasury bills sold (less discount on Treasury bills redeemed) are excluded from "interest on the public debt," and like amounts are excluded from "borrowing from the public (net)," as they are noncash transactions.

OTHER ADJUSTMENTS

Interest paid by Government corporations and credit agencies to the Treasury are excluded from "other activities—checking accounts of Government corporations and credit agencies with the Treasurer of the United States (net)" under payments, and from "miscellaneous receipts." Interest paid to the Government life insurance fund on investments in Federal farm loan bonds is excluded from the expenditure item, "checking accounts of Government corporations and credit agencies," and from trust account receipts. The amounts of the excess-profits tax refund bonds are excluded from "refunds" and from "borrowing from the public," because the refundable portion of the excess-profits taxes are treated as "borrowings" when collected rather than when the bonds are issued. The portion of the subscriptions to the International Monetary Fund made in the form of non-interest-bearing notes issued by the Secretary of the Treasury are treated as noncash transactions in this table and therefore are eliminated from "payments to the public" and from "borrowing from the public." Payments to the public will occur when these notes are redeemed.

Federal Activities in Public Works

The chapter on General Public Works Program included in part II in past Budget documents has been eliminated in this Budget and the material contained therein distributed among the appropriate agency chapters of part II. In its place a revised and more comprehensive treatment of Federal public works is presented in this section of part III. The presentation of General Public Works Program in summary tables 1, 2, and 4 and appendix 8, however, has not been changed except for a revised secondary classification of the constituent items.

This new section covers Federal outlays for public works planning and construction including grants and loans to State and local units of government as well as direct Federal outlays for such purposes. The concept of Federal public works used herein cuts across functions and funds. Outlays of general and special accounts for both national defense and civil works activities, including loans and grants, and outlays of Government corporations for which such information is readily available are included.

In order to obtain a more comprehensive presentation of public works it has been necessary in some cases to go below the appropriation unit level. Some appropriations, although not predominantly public works, include funds for construction or public works planning. Where such amounts are relatively large, they have been included in this section. On the other hand, some appropriations, although predominantly for construction projects, include amounts for maintenance and operation. The latter amounts, if substantial, have been eliminated and are not included in the amounts presented in this section.

The coverage of Federal public works in this new section of part III is, therefore, broader than the General Public Works Program category shown in the summary tables and appendix. It includes all items classified in the latter category, except for the elimination, in a few cases, of maintenance and operation. In addition, however, it includes some construction activities classified in the summary and appendix tables under national defense and other functional categories under general and special accounts and the construction activities of certain Government corporations.

The War Program

This section of part III shows various cumulative aspects of the war and defense program over 5, 6, and 7 years, respectively, and also shows semiannual war expenditures for 6 years, both by objects of expenditure and by agency.

Table A shows the cumulative war and national defense program authorized from July 1, 1940, through June 30, 1947. Both the activities in the general and special accounts and of the Government corporations are covered. The status of the war and national defense program from the standpoint of (1) authorizations, (2) expenditures, and (3) unexpended balances (unobligated authorizations and unliquidated obligations) is shown as of three periods: the beginning of fiscal year 1946 (before rescissions, when the authorized program was at a maximum), estimated as of June 30, 1946, and estimated as of June 30, 1947.

Table B classifies war expenditures by type of expenditure. The total expenditures have been classified into three major categories: (1) munitions, (2) war construction, and (3) nonmunitions. "Munitions" include both military and civilian-type equipment and operating supplies procured from war appropriations, including those produced in Government arsenals and navy yards, except for subsistence of the armed forces and agricultural products for export. "War construction" includes outlays from war appropriations for military installations, defense plant and equipment, war housing, etc. "Nonmunitions" consist of two major subcategories: (a) pay, subsistence, and travel of the armed forces (including mustering-out pay and the Government's share of dependency allowances); and (b) other expenditures for services and various miscellaneous objects, including civilian pay of the war agencies (excluding arsenals and navy yards), stock piling of critical materials, procurement of agricultural products for export, contract termination payments, commercial transportation and public utilities, and other minor groups.

Table C shows war expenditures classified by agency.

Explanation of the Estimates of Receipts Under Existing Legislation

This section of part III presents a statement by the Treasury Department to explain the estimates of general and special account receipts based on existing legislation.

THE APPENDIXES

Appendix 2 summarizes the cash transactions of all funds and Treasury balances at the beginning and end of the year. The data, other than Treasury balances, are derived from table 1.

Appendix 3 shows the outstanding public debt by types of indebtedness. The difference between the total public debt outstanding at the end of fiscal years 1944 and 1945 appears in table 1 as the net increase in public debt during the fiscal year 1945. Appendix 4 lists the contingent liabilities of the United States as of June 30, 1945.

Appendix 5 shows permanent appropriations from general and special accounts for the fiscal year 1945, 1946, and 1947 and expenditures for the fiscal year 1945. The permanent appropriations have been enacted by Congress at various times and the acts remain in effect until repealed or amended. This appendix does not include permanent trust appropriations. Most of the trust appropriations listed in table 11 are of the permanent type.

Appendix 6 compares cash expenditures of departments and agencies and their constituent units over a 7-year period. In several instances, there have been reorganizations and certain activities have been transferred between departments and agencies. In such cases, annual expenditures throughout the 7-year period are based upon the pattern of organization on June 30, 1945. Footnotes indicate the date of the transfer and the name of the earlier agency.

Appendix 7 shows the unexpended balances of appropriations (a) on the books of the Treasury and (b) to the credit of disbursing officers as of June 30, 1945. It also shows appropriations for the fiscal year 1946 as of November 1, 1945.

Appendix 8 presents a 10-year comparison (1938–47) for general and special accounts of receipts by source and of expenditures by function as classified in table 1, and the outstanding public debt at the end of each fiscal year. This comparison is also shown graphically in the charts following the Budget Message of the President. The chart showing expenditures by functions includes, for the fiscal years 1946 and 1947, a tentative distribution of the lump-sum estimates of expenditures from anticipated supplemental appropriations, and a similar distribution of expenditures from the appropriations which are required to implement financially the proposed new basic legislation recommended by the President in the Budget Message.
